JURY RETURNS LOCEY FINDING IN ONE HOUR

Fayette-Co Man Who Stole
Wheat Guilty of Burglary
and Larceny.

After only 70 minutes deliberation, a jury in common pleas court Thursday returned a verdict of guilty of burglary and larceny against Otis Locoy of Fayette-co near New Holland, for stealing seed wheat. Judge J. W. Adkins will not pass sentence on Locoy until early next week.

The jury was given the case shortly before 4 p. m. Thursday and at just 5 p. m. returned their verdict. Harry Abbott was foreman of the jury which was comprised of Dennis Brinker, Mrs. John C. Haynes, Frank Heffner, Mrs. B. K. Clapp, Mrs. Charles Mason, Marion Hoover, Everett Beavers, Mrs. C. E. Hill, Mrs. Benford Miller, George Bolender and Elmer Beavers.

Locoy, with Elbert Parker, who has not been apprehended were said to have stolen 15 bushels of seed wheat from the granary of J. B. Parker, the wheat belonging to Parker and George Plum, on the night of Sept. 15. The wheat was valued at $30.

Locoy was arrested after he had been chased as he left the granary while his companion in the robbery, who is thought to have been Elbert Parker, made his escape. Locoy pleaded not guilty to the charge before Justice of the Peace E. C. Fricke and was bound over to the grand jury where he was indicted.

His attorneys, Adkins and Adkins, have the customary three days in which to file a motion for a new trial although it is not known whether they will do this or not.

Prosecuting Attorney Emmitt L. Crist represented the state in the case. The case had been before Judge Adkins since Wednesday.

SHORT ILLNESS TAKES CHILD

Year Old Daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Raymond Redman Summoned.

Margie Marie Redman, daughter of Raymond and Marie Hurdle Redman of E. Union-st., died at 4:10 p. m. Thursday after an illness of two weeks. She was born March 21, 1928 and is survived by a brother two weeks old, her parents, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. James Redman, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hurdle of Circleville.

Funeral services for the child will be conducted Monday at 2 p. m. at the home with Rev. O. L. Ferguson officiating. Burial in Forest cemetery will be under the direction of M. S. Rinehart.

RADIO WINNER ASKS DIVORCE

Mrs. Ellice Bell, Columbus, Sues Kenneth Bell in Franklin-Co Court.

Kenneth Bell, employe of the H. E. Given Oil Co., was sued for a divorce Friday by his wife Ellice Bell, of Columbus, winner of the Atwater-Kent radio audition held here, who filed her suit in the Franklin-co courts.

The Bells were married April 4, 1922. They have a daughter seven years of age.

Mrs. Bell charged gross neglect and extreme cruelty. She asked for alimony and custody of the daughter.

SERVICES FOR AUTO VICTIM TO BE HERE

Funeral service for Mrs. Grace Morris, 46, Columbus, who died Thursday at Grant hospital, as a result of an automobile accident, Dec. 2, will be conducted at the Forest cemetery chapel here Saturday. Burial will also be made here.

(Mexican President and Family in N.Y.)

President-Elect Pascual Ortiz Rubio of Mexico arrived with his family in New York a few days ago, from Little Rock, Ark., where they have been spending a vacation after the strenuous presidential campaign. He expects to meet General Plutarco Elias Calles, former President of Mexico, in New York on the latter's return from his European tour.

ROTARY CLUB HEARS ADDRESS BY W. UNDERWOOD, OF ELYRIA

The Rotary meeting at the Boggs hotel Thursday noon was well attended with a number of visitors from Lancaster and Chillicothe visited the local club. Walter Underwood, executive secretary of the Ohio society for crippled children, of Elyria, O., was the speaker for this meeting.

Mr. Underwood told of the incidents leading up to and how the society was formed through the efforts of Daddy Allen. Since its inception it has been closely associated with the Rotary clubs of the state and has now become a model for 32 states in the Union.

"This time of the year particularly Mr. Underwood stated, our thoughts are for these children less fortunate than us, and this feeling of sympathy has played a big part in making the work of the society a success."

"Prior to 1919, Ohio spent no money for crippled children work," he stated, "and since this society has been formed, and with the many friends and workers it has through the Rotary clubs, several pieces of legislation have been enacted that makes it possible to do this work with almost sufficient funds. Since 1919 over 7500 children have received proper care through the efforts of the society and today according to our census there are 1700 who need care and have not been cared for. In Pickaway-co there are a small number who have not received the treatment that they should have, and these are mostly accounted for from the reason that their parents objected to having the children placed in the institutions that are being used for rehabilitation."

"This we have in many instances," he stated, "and does not reflect on the work that has been done in Pickaway-co. Mr. Underwood congratulated the local organization for the work they have done with the crippled child and commended the local authorities for the co-operation they have given to make this good work possible."

Mr. Fred Clark, is chairman of the committee on crippled children for the local Rotary club and has been quite active with carrying out the program they have outlined.

DOHENY TRIAL
SET MARCH 6

Oil Magnate To Face Charge of Giving Fall Bribe of $100,000.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—The trial of Edward L. Doherty, multimillionaire oil magnate, on a charge of having given Albert B. Fall, ex-secretary of the interior, a bribe of $100,000 in connection with his lease of the Elk Hills naval oil reserve, was set today by Justice William Hitz in district supreme court on March 6 next.

Fall already has been convicted of having accepted this money "in a little black satchel," but is at liberty pending an appeal of the case.

Doherty was a witness at the recent trial of Fall, which resulted in conviction. He testified that the $100,000 was not a bribe, but "a loan from one old friend to another."

When the jury brought in the verdict convicting Fall, the aged oil magnate had to be restrained by his attorneys from shouting imprecations at the court.

OFFICIALS TRY TO FIX BLAME

Question All Employes of Pathe Studio—Walker
Hints At Bribery.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—City authorities today were planning to question all employes of the Pathe studios in an effort to fix responsibility for the disastrous blaze that cost the lives of ten persons last Tuesday.

John C. Flynn, vice president of Pathe studios, and Henry F. Lally, manager, who were arrested following the alleged discovery of 150,000 feet of unprotected inflammable film in the studios, are to be arraigned in homicide court next Thursday on general charges involving negligence.

Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen was reported today to have informed Mayor James J. Walker of a suspicion of special favors and petty grafting in connection with film storing and other matters of a similar nature.

Mrs. Howard Orr went to Bat-le Creek, Mich., Thursday where Mr. Orr had an operation for the removal of his tonsils.

SURVIVORS OF AUBURN FRAY FACE DEATH

Authorities Search Prison For Pistols—Durnford Funeral Saturday.

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 13.—With "iron-handed" firmness, Auburn prison officials continued their search today for eight pistols which, it believed, convict survivors of the violent jailbreak attempt that took nine lives Wednesday hid away for future use.

Four pistols were found in the prison, two during the day yesterday and two last night, after prison guards aided by troopers scoured many out of the way crevices inside the prison. Prison authorities are certain that 12 pistols were used by ringleaders of the convict mutiny in their daring but vain struggle for freedom.

Meanwhile punitive close confinement is rigidly enforced. All meals are being served the convicts in their cells. No exercise periods are granted. These rules will be kept in effect until the missing pistols are found.

Seven convict survivors of the sanguinary battle for freedom are facing first-degree murder indictments for the killing of George A. Durnford, principal keeper of the prison who was slain right at the outset of the outbreak.

Two investigations into the cause of the outbreak the second to occur here within six months, are in progress. The results of investigations will be used as evidence in punishing surviving leaders of the jail break.

One investigation is being conducted by the department of correction. The other is being made by District Attorney Ben Kenyon of Cayuga County, who expects to ask the grand jury for murder indictments against those responsible for Durnford's death when the jury meets Jan. 6.

Sergeant George H. Sullivan, acting warden of the prison, continues in charge. Warden Edgar S. Jennings, who was captured by the convicts and held hostage before being rescued by state troopers, has returned to his quarters in the prison but is still feeling the effects of tear gas he inhaled and a blow he received in the struggle which resulted in his rescue.

Sullivan is determined to make the convicts regret the killing of Durnford whom he termed the bravest, squarest man in the state. He has asserted that they need expect no leniency while he is in charge.

Funeral services for Durnford will be held Saturday afternoon. He will receive military honors as he was captain of the headquarters company of the 108th Regiment N. Y. National Guard and was a World War veteran. His wife and two children survive him.

PUBLIC SQUARE
IS DECORATED

Garlands of Christmas Greens Hung From Corner To Corner By Workmen

Garlands of Christmas greens have been hung at Main-and-Court sts, making an arbor over the square, where many of townspeople and strangers passing through, may see them and catch the spirit of Christmas. The green garlands are beautiful in the day time, topped by graceful spruce branches, but at night the effect is to be even more pronounced with the entire scheme of this community decoration, wired and fitted with bright colored bulbs.

At the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce, the decorative scheme was made possible by the Ohio Water Service Co., the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., the Citizens Telephone Co., and the Ohio Utilities Co.

Jack Mitchell, of the Mitchell Greenhouse supervised the decoration of the poles and wires. The Ohio Utilities will furnish the current free, and the work was accomplished by the Telephone Co., and the Water and Gas companies.

W. A. Funk and Ira Ebers arrived home Thursday from Chicago where they attended a meeting of I. G. A. buyers. They left here Sunday.

Everyone Ready For Emergency On Bad Friday

Policemen peered around corners, whistles to mouths, firemen sat with their ears to the alarm board, and doctors kept their hats on, all ready for any emergency for it was Friday the thirteenth, a date when public buildings might be blown up, groceries robbed, and children spirited away. The sight of a black cat crossing one's path was the signal for hysterics.

It was a day for careful stepping, and no walking under ladders nor crossing the street against a green light. An innocent banana peel, was a murderous object to be circumnavigated at all costs. Cakes burned in the ovens, law suits went wrong in court, and babies fell out of perambulators for it was Friday, the thirteenth had luck for all.

ARREST 23 IN MINE TROUBLE

State Troops Seize Men, Women and Girls Preparing To Picket Mine.

BULPITT, ILL., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—The state bared its teeth today in crushing an incipient reign of trouble at the Tovey mine, near here.

Troopers seized and placed under arrest 23 persons, including seven men and 16 women and girls. The party was preparing to picket mine No. 8.

Their plans were frustrated, however, when troopers suddenly surrounded them and despite curses of the men and screams from the women and girls marched them aboard a special train and headed them for Taylorville where they were locked up in the county jail.

The mine at Tovey has been a storm center for the last two days in the striking being fostered by the National Miners' Union.

WILLIAMS WINS
$196 JUDGMENT

A judgment in the sum of $196.46 due on a note was returned in common pleas court Friday in favor of A. D. Williams against Max and Miller Fiegelshtaler.

Paul Adkins was attorney for the plaintiff.

C. E. Underwood of Columbus was in Circleville Friday on business connected with the Rathmell ditch case which will be presented at a hearing Tuesday, Dec. 31st in the Franklin-co courts.

HORST VAINLY WAIT THRU NIGHT FOR RETURN OF SON

ORRIDGE, Pa., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—In a room bedecked with last year's Christmas tree and the toys of a child, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horst waited vainly all night long for the return of their son, four-year-old Melvin Horst, who mysteriously disappeared from the streets here two nights after Christmas, last year.

The little boy's return had been promised in an unsigned note to the editor of a local newspaper. The note demanded $100 and freedom, from arrest and this was agreed to by authorities.

However, the note had proved to be a hoax today, a cruel hoax which made the parents hope that their little dimpled-cheeked and blonde-haired boy would be with them again this Yuletide and then dashed that hope on the rocks with the coming of daylight.

The parents of the child have kept the Christmas tree and toys which were Melvin's last year. The tree stands brown and barren. Elias and Arthur Arnold—63-year-old father and 18-year-old son recently stood trial for a second time on child-stealing charges in connection with the lad's disappearance, but they were acquitted.

Melvin vanished from the streets here on the night of Dec. 27, last year. He has not been seen or heard from since. The case has remained an enigma, unavenged and unsolved by justice.

A telephone message to Horst from an attendant at the detention home stated that a boy, picked up with a man who said he was the father, in a downtown department store yesterday, was believed to be Melvin.

Horst asserted he was positive the boy here was not his missing nephew, although he bore a close resemblance to Melvin.

MEN TO TRY
LONG FLIGHT

Frenchman and Uruguayan
To Try To Link Europe
and Montevideo.

SEVILLE, Dec. 13.—Within a few hours the world may be gripped by the spectacular attempt of Captain Leon Challe, of France, and Major Larre-Borges, of Uruguay, to link Europe and Montevideo by a non-stop flight.

Captain Challe, who established a former record for straight-line distance, and Major Larre-Borges, hero of a South Atlantic flight, arrived here several weeks ago from Villacoublay aerodrome, near Paris. They have announced, weather permitting, they will start the flight tomorrow.

It is extremely doubtful, according to experts, whether a flight from Seville to Montevideo would set a new long distance record, which the aviators wish to do, so they may start from Istres, France. By taking off from Istres, the Franco-Uruguayan team might nose through the record by a few miles.

They are flying a Breguet-Bidon biplane, powered with two 450 horse-power Lorraine motors.

O. S. U. STUDENT
PRESIDENT DIES

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13.—(INS.)—Samuel J. Seibert, 21, president of the student senate at the Ohio State university here and one of the campus leaders, died here early today from influenza after an illness of about two weeks.

He was a member of Sphinx, senior honorary society and of the Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, besides numerous other campus activities.

PROPOSITION APPROVED BY BOTH HOUSES

President Wants To Build 3
Jails and Put Prisoners
On Road Work.

By WILLIAM NEAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The Hoover administration's plan for a sweeping reorganization of the federal prison system was laid before both Houses of Congress today with pledges of prompt consideration. Sen. Norris (R) of Nebraska and Rep. Graham (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the judiciary committee of the senate and House, have introduced the legislation.

Attorney-General Mitchell is expected to take the lead in the movement for enactment of five separate measures, aided by Sanford Bates, who was chosen superintendent of prisons to effect a reorganization.

The program is designed to end congestion in prisons, condemned by a special House investigating committee; provide employment, revamp the parole system and broaden the power of the Department of Justice to effect emergency changes.

Although the administration's reorganization plan has been in the making for a long time, the riot of last summer at Leavenworth and riots at state prisons have added to the determination of the justice department to obtain changes in the law.

The program includes:

Building of three new prisons, one west of the Mississippi river, two east of it.

Creation of a federal board of parole to replace present systems of a board for each institution composed of officers with other duties.

Authorizing employment of prisoners in building roads and in national parks and their loan to states for public works purposes; authorizing of maintenance of road prison camps.

Building of new institution for criminal insane, now housed at St. Elizabeth's, Washington, D. C. which is overcrowded.

Authorize establishment of temporary jails, if local or state authorities refuse temporary jailing of prisoners awaiting trial.

Increased funds for probation officers, as one means of ending present congestion in federal prisons.

The proposal to permit general employment of prisoners is regarded as one of the most sweeping changes. Of 11,000 prisoners in federal institutions, but 2,000 now have regular employment, according to Superintendent Bates.

A canvass bag factory is maintained at Atlanta, and shoes are made at Leavenworth.

The employment law is being changed with restrictions designed to reduce competition with free labor to a minimum. The proposed new law makes it the duty of the attorney-general to provide employment for all physically fit inmates.

Use of prisoners in building roads is particularly desired in public parks and through public lands in the west, it is understood. Prisoners could be used in building levees on the Mississippi river and for other flood control work.

More liberality in the parole system to reduce congestion is predicted by prison authorities if a single parole board is created. Over 9,000 cases were heard last year by the various parole boards, which include wardens and prison physicians. The boards have been unable to give prompt attention to all demands for parole, it is asserted.

JURY RETURNS LOCEY FINDING IN ONE HOUR

Fayette-Co Man Who Stole
Wheat Guilty of Burglary
and Larceny.

After only 70 minutes deliberation, a jury in common pleas court Thursday returned a verdict of guilty of burglary and larceny against Otis Locey of Fayette-co near New Holland, for stealing seed wheat. Judge J. W. Adkins will not pass sentence on Locey until early next week.

The jury was given the case shortly before 4 p. m. Thursday and at just 5 p. m. returned their verdict. Harry Abbott was foreman of the jury which was comprised of Dennis Brinker, Mrs.
John C. Haynes, Frank Heffner,
Mrs. B. K. Clapp, Mrs. Charles
Mason, Marion Hoover, Everett
Beavers, Mrs. C. E. Hill, Mrs.
Benford Miller, George Bolender and Elmer Beavers.

Locey, with Elbert Parker, who has not been apprehended were said to have stolen 15 bushels of seed wheat from the granary of J. B. Parker, the wheat belonging to Parker and George Plum, on the night of Sept. 15. The wheat was valued at $30.

Locey was arrested after he had been chased as he left the granary while his companion in the robbery, who is thought to have been Elbert Parker, made his escape. Locey pleaded not guilty to the charge before Justice of the Peace E. C. Friece and was bound over to the grand jury where he was indicted.

His attorneys, Adkins and Adkins, have the customary three days in which to file a motion for a new trial although it is not known whether they will do this or not.

Prosecuting Attorney Emmitt L. Crist represented the state in the case. The case had been before Judge Adkins since Wednesday.

"This time of the year particularly Mr. Underwood stated, our thoughts are for these children less fortunate than us, and this feeling of sympathy has played a big part in making the work of the society a success."

"Prior to 1919, Ohio spent no money for crippled children work," he stated, "and since this society has been formed, and with the many friends and workers it has through the Rotary clubs, several pieces of legislation have been enacted that makes it possible to do this work with almost sufficient funds. Since 1919 over 7500 children have received proper care through the efforts of the society away-co there are a small number who have not received the treatment that they should have, and these are mostly accounted for from the reason that their parents objected to having the children placed in the institutions that are being used for rehabilitation."

"This we have in many instances, he stated, "and does not reflect on the work that has been done in Pickaway-co. Mr. Underwood congratulated the local organization for the work they have done with the crippled child and commended the local authori-

SURVIVORS OF AUBURN FRAY FACE DEATH

Authorities Search Prison For
Pistols—Durnford Funeral Saturday.

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 13.—With "iron-handed" firmness, Auburn prison officials continued their search today for eight pistols which, it believed, convict survivors of the violent jailbreak attempt that took nine lives Wednesday hid away for future use.

Four pistols were found in the prison, two during the day yesterday and two last night, after prison guards aided by troopers scoured many out of the way crevices inside the prison. Prison authorities are certain that 12 pistols were used by ringleaders of the convict mutiny in their daring but vain struggle for freedom.

Meanwhile punitive close confinement is rigidly enforced. All meals are being served the convicts in their cells. No exercise periods are granted. These rules will be kept in effect until the missing pistols are found.

Seven convict survivors of the sanguinary battle for freedom are facing first-degree murder indictments for the killing of George A. Durnford, principal keeper of the prison who was slain right at the outset of the outbreak.

Two investigations into the cause of the outbreak the second to occur here within six months, are in progress. The results of investigations will be used as evidence in punishing surviving leaders of the jail break.

One investigation is being conducted by the department of correction. The other is being made by District Attorney Ben Kenyon of Cayuga County, who expects to act the grand jury for murder indictments against those responsible for Durnford's death when the jury meets Jan. 6.

Sergeant George H. Sullivan, acting warden of the prison continues in charge. Warden Edgar S. Jennings, who was captured by the convicts and held hostage before being rescued by state troopers, has returned to his quarters in the prison but is still feeling the effects of tear gas he inhaled and a blow he received in the struggle which resulted in his rescue.

Sullivan is determined to make the convicts regret the killing of Durnford whom he termed the bravest, squarest man in the state.
He has asserted that they need expect no leniency while he is in charge.

Funeral services for Durnford will be held Saturday afternoon.
He will receive military honors
as he was captain of the headquarters company of the 108th Regiment N. Y. National Guard and was a World War veteran.
His wife and two children survive him.

BULPITT, ILL., Dec. 13.—(IN S)—The state bared its teeth today in crushing an incipient reign of trouble at the Tovey mine, near here.

Troopers seized and placed under arrest 23 persons, including seven men and 16 women and girls. The party was preparing to picket mine No. 8.

Their plans were frustrated, however, when troopers suddenly surrounded them and despite curses of the men and screams from the women and girls marched them aboard a special train and headed them for Taylorville where they were locked up in the county jail.

The mine at Tovey has been a storm center for the last two days in the striking being fostered by the National Miners' Union.

HORSTS VAINLY WAIT THRU NIGHT FOR RETURN OF SON

ORRVILLE, O., Dec. 13.—(INS)
—In a room bedecked with last year's Christmas tree and the toys of a child, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Horst waited vainly all night long for the return of their son, four-year-old Melvin Horst, who mysteriously disappeared from the streets here two nights after Christmas, last year.

The little boy's return had been promised in an unsigned note to the editor of a local newspaper.
The note demanded $100 and freedom, from arrest and this was agreed to by authorities.

However, the note had proved to be a hoax today, a cruel hoax which made the parents' hope that their little dimpled-cheeked and blonde-haired boy would be with them again this Yuletide and then dashed that hope on the rocks with the coming of daylight.

The parents of the child have kept the Christmas tree and toys which were Melvin's last year.
The tree stands brown and barren.
Elias and Arthur Arnold—63-year-old father and 18-year-old son recently stood trial for a second time on child-stealing charges in connection with the lad's disappearance, but they were acquitted.

Melvin vanished from the streets here on the night of Dec.
27, last year. He has not been seen or heard from since. The case has remained an enigma, unavenged and unsolved by justice.

A telephone message to Horst from an attendant at the detention home stated that a boy, picked up with a man who said he was the father, in a downtown department store yesterday, was believed to be Melvin.

Horst asserted he was positive the boy here was not his missing nephew, although he bore a close resemblance to Melvin.

MEN TO TRY LONG FLIGHT

Frenchman and Uruguayan
To Try To Link Europe
and Montevideo.

SEVILLE, Dec. 13.—Within a few hours the world may be gripped by the spectacular attempt of Captain Leon Challe, of France, and Major Larre-Borges, of Uruguay, to link Europe and Montevideo by a non-stop flight.

Captain Challe, who established a former record for straight-line distance, and Major Larre-Borges, hero of a South Atlantic flight, arrived here several weeks ago from Villacoublay aerodrome, near Paris. They have announced, weather permitting, they will start the flight tomorrow.

It is extremely doubtful, according to experts, whether a flight from Seville to Montevideo would set a new long distance record, which the airmen wish to do, so they may start from Istres, France. By taking off from Istres, the Franco-Uruguayan team might nose through the record
by a few miles.

They are flying a Breguet-Bi-don biplane, powered with two 450 horse-power Lorraine motors.

PROPOSITION APPROVED BY BOTH HOUSES

President Wants To Build 3
Jails and Put Prisoners
On Road Work.

By WILLIAM NEAL

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—The Hoover administration's plan for a sweeping reorganization of the federal prison system was laid before both Houses of Congress today with pledges of prompt consideration. Sen. Norris (R) of Nebraska and Rep. Graham (R) of Pennsylvania, chairman of the judiciary committees of the senate and House, have introduced the legislation.

Attorney-General Mitchell is expected to take the lead in the movement for enactment of five separate measures, aided by Sanford Bates, who was chosen superintendent of prisons to effect a reorganization.

The program is designed to end congestion in prisons, condemned by a special House investigating committee; provide employment, revamp the parole system and broaden the power of the Department of Justice to effect emergency changes.

Although the administration's reorganization plan has been in the making for a long time, the riot of last summer at Leavenworth and riots at state prisons have added to the determination of the justice department to obtain changes in the law.

The program includes:
Building of three new prisons,
one west of the Mississippi river,
two east of it.

Creation of a single board of parole to replace present system of a board for each institution composed of officers with other duties.

Authorizing employment of prisoners in building roads and in national parks and their loan to states for public works purposes;
authorizing of maintenance of road prison camps.

Building of new institution for criminal insane, now housed at St. Elizabeth's, Washington, D. C. which is overcrowded.

Authorize establishment of temporary jails if local or state authorities refuse temporary jailing of prisoners awaiting trial.

Increased funds for probation officers, as one means of ending present congestion in federal prisons.

The proposal to permit general employment of prisoners is regarded as one of the most sweeping changes. Of 11,000 prisoners in federal institutions, but 2,000 now have regular employment, according to Superintendent Bates.
A canvas bag factory is maintained at Atlanta, and shoes are made at Leavenworth.

The employment law is hedged with restrictions designed to reduce competition with free labor to a minimum. The proposed new law makes it the duty of the attorney-general to provide employment for all physically fit inmates.

Use of prisoners in building roads is particularly desired in public parks and through public lands in the west, it is understood. Prisoners could be used in building levees on the Mississippi river and for other flood control work.

More liberality in the parole system to reduce congestion is predicted by prison authorities if a single parole board is created.
Over 9,000 cases were heard last year by the various parole boards, which include wardens and prison physicians. The boards have been unable to give prompt attention to all demands for parole, it is asserted.

GOV. COOPER'S AUTO IS TAKEN

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 13.—(IN S.)—Governor Myers Y. Cooper is among other victims of the Friday, the thirteenth, jinx today.

He awoke this morning to find that his private automobile, a large and expensive sedan, had been stolen from the garage of his chauffeur.

A lock had been broken from the garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Young of Chillicothe visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sennett Cryder, Thursday.

SPINAGO WOULD HAVE SAVED ME TWENTY YEARS OF SUFFERING

Circleville Man Loud In His Praise of New Spinach Tonic After It Demonstrates Its Worth.

Not a tonic that makes claims which it cannot fulfill; not a tonic that talks and does not act. Such is Spinago. It is an efficient, quick remedy whose feats speak for themselves. Countless residents of Circleville have found this out and are thanking this master medicine for the health it has brought them. Its practical formula makes it possible for it to give quick and lasting results in cases of stomach, liver and bowel troubles, indigestion, dyspepsia, constipation, rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness. In cases of anemic, sluggish and impure blood, in ailments resulting from a worn out condition of the body, delivers and brings back health.

NOAH BOWSHER.

Witness the case of Noah Bowsher who resides in this city at the Main Hotel. Mr. Bowsher suffered terribly from dyspepsia and stomach trouble. But let him tell his own story.

"For twenty years my stomach gave me no end of trouble. Dyspepsia caused me to pick my foods with great care, denying me those I desired and confining me to those which would give me no trouble. Even with the simplest of foods, indigestion caused gas on my stomach, belching and misery after every meal. Is it any wonder that my appetite vanished? A continual sick headache stuck with me practically all of the time and my weight dropped away due to undernourishment.

"But all this was before I heard of Spinago. So many, many remedies had failed to help me that it was only with persuasion that I finally decided to give this new medicine a trial. Two bottles, greatly to my surprise, changed everything for me. I am not troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or indigestion any more. My food digests easily and nothing I eat gives me trouble. What a relief it is to know that I can pick my foods as I please; that I can eat with freedom with no fear of discomfort or pain; and that my bodily condition is improving daily. And all praise to Spinago for these wonders."

Spinach, the most important ingredient of Spinago is responsible for much of its effectiveness. But not alone, as this super tonic is made up of a carefully selected assortment of medically valuable roots, herbs and barks, each one of which works both separately and in co-operation with all the others in combating and driving out the most stubborn ailments.

Why not try a bottle of this amazing compound today? You will never regret the trial. Spinago is sold and guaranteed in Circleville by The Mykranitz Pharmacy, 107 N. Court St., and by all other good druggists in this section.—Adv.

SANTA CLAUS AT JEFFRIES, COLVILLE

Here's news for the kiddies of Circleville, that is to those who believe in Santa Claus, for that old gentleman will arrive in town late Friday night for his public appearance on Saturday.

Santa Claus, a right jovial old elf, will be in front of Jeffries & Colville store Saturday all day and evening and every day and evening until Christmas.

But there is something else. Not only will he be there to talk with all the children but he will give each little boy or girl a present.

Jeffries and Colville have supplied Santa with 2,500 bright new pennies which were sent to them from the Federal Reserve bank, as bright, shiny and clean as they were when they came out of the mint. These pennies will be keptakes of the children, in memory of the days when they gathered around old Santa, who gave them bright new pennies to treasure.

With Christmas there is inseparably associated the idea of home cheeriness and comfort—a roaring log fire, glowing lamps and colorful decorations. What then is more in keeping with the Spirit of Christmas than gifts that make the home more comfortable, cheerful and beautiful? Below we offer some happy suggestions.

Occasional tables are quite popular right now. Use one to fill up that empty corner, or beside that easy chair. They are too varied in style and price to quote here. Drop in and see them.

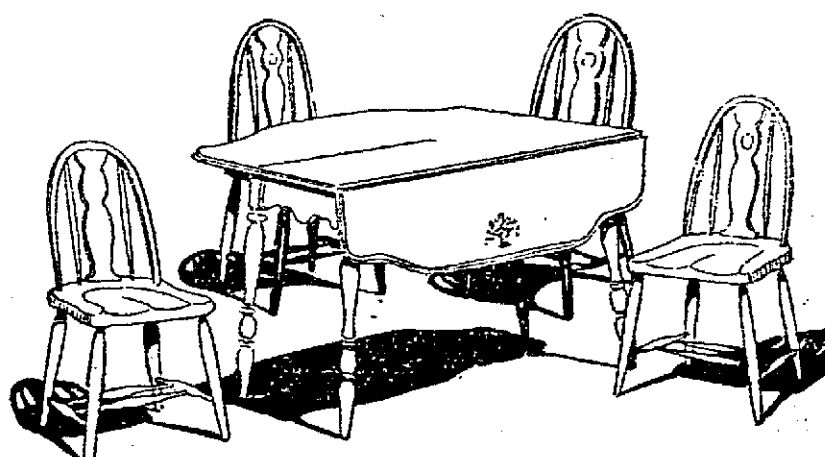

Spinet desks are stylish and practical. Just the place for the lady-of-the-house to do her writing and keep her papers. A number of sizes, styles, and prices from which to make a selection. Priced up from $17.00.

What girl does not desire a "Treasure Chest"? Some in Red Cedar, some in Walnut, but all have real red cedar interiors. Small chests, large chests, low chests, chests with drawers, chests with rolling for window seats. Priced from $11.40 up.

OAK FURNITURE DIED with the Great War. So did the leather upholstery on the wood frame living room furniture. The overstuffed furniture came into being at that time and is still THE furniture for the living room. Soft and cozy, it has an inviting look that simply cannot be resisted. Such a suite is suggested for the family at this Christmas Season. Pool your money and make a present to the family that will be used every day and evening. The young folks will want to stay at home, if one of our suites are in your house. Various styles in various coverings, priced up from $93.00.

A breakfast set always proves to be an excellent Christmas present to Mother, or to a married Sister. We have quite a nice line of them in a variety of colors. Some have drop leaves, while others have extension slides. We also have unfinished sets, so that you may paint them to suit yourself. Owing to the variety of patterns and prices, we suggest that you call and let us price them to you.

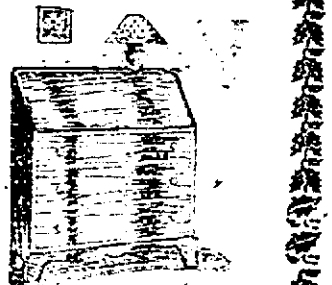

The babies—what would Christmas be without them? Yes, we have some things for them, too. Beautiful high chairs and rockers; tables and chairs; dressers; chests; and other articles that will make good useful presents to the children.

Boudoir, or slippers, chairs in cretonne would make an excellent present to Wife, Daughter, or Sister. They have webbed constructions, just like the best of living room furniture. Not the cheapest, of course, but good. Up from $12.00.

A large assortment of end tables—just the table for the side of Dad's easy chair—to hold a pipe, smoking tray, and papers. Some of them with book-racks, some with magazine racks. One pattern, very similar to picture, as low as $3.75.

How about Dad? Has he a place to keep his papers and do his writing? Here's a reproduction of a box. Wintrop that will be greatly appreciated and used by him. Besides, it will add charm to the room. It is worth $24.00.

SEED TIME

Plants have many and curious ways of scattering their seeds so as to preserve the species. Some use the force of wind, others the aid of the water, and still others use a force of their own. Birds, animals and man, unconsciously and often unwillingly are servants in the cause. At this time of the year where the plants have shed their leaves and the stalks are bare it is interesting to note how the different plants behave in this respect. Take the Jimson-Weed, which everybody knows, with its many branched stalk and dozens of thorny seed vessels. Upon ripening in the early fall the pod opens only part way. At this time some of the seeds are scattered immediately under the plant. Then comes a windy day waving the plant back and forth, throwing some seeds farther away. Then later in the winter a snow comes with sleet on top of it. This is the ideal time for the seed to scatter. The blasts of wind again cast the seeds on the surface of ice and away they go, sliding all over the farmer's fields, and he wonders how so many jimson weeds got into his other clean fields.

The same facts apply to many other varieties of weeds that give so much trouble to the farmer and make him work over time.

Other plants that grow in close proximity to water use the moving current to convey their seeds to other localities. Such seeds have unusually hard coverings, impervious to water. Among these are the buckeyes and bladder nuts. The latter is a good sized shrub that is usually found growing along banks near streams. It bears an inflated pod oval in shape and an inch or more in diameter. Inside is a dozen or more very hard dark brown glossy seeds, so hard that a hammer is needed to break them. The pod stays on till all the leaves have fallen, then it, too, is cast to the ground and rolls to the bottom of the bank and into the stream. The inflated pod makes an ideal boat, floating here and there, till it finds lodging farther down the stream or it may be on the other side of a lake or pond.

The touch-me-not uses another method of its own. When the seed vessel ripens and it is touched it bursts open with a twisting motion which hurls the seeds a foot or two away from the parent plant. The witch-hazel is not common in this immediate vicinity, but very common east and south of us. Blooms in October, ripens its seed in the early spring. Then before the leaves get in the way the seed capsule snaps open hurling the hard pellets twenty to twenty-five feet away.

Birds, animals and men also serve the purpose of plants in disseminating their seeds. Birds eat the fruits of many plants that have in digestible seeds and also scatter them. Animals collect stick-tights and other burs on their fur, and men on their clothing and carry them away to other localities.

Any farm boy has experienced the difficulty in cleaning the horses manes and tails of cockle-burs. Railroads are another method of scattering seed of undesirable plants. Once while searching a right-of-way I found several weeds not native of Ohio but of Kansas prairies. At another time while scouting over a large cattle pasture I discovered a species of sheep-purse nature of Texas. This had probably been carried on the hair of feet of cattle as the owner of the land bought his feeding cattle from the south-west.

We who farm or raise a back yard garden often grumble about the weeds that spring up every where on the least provocation. Yet they seem to be a necessary adjunct in the economy of nature.

Soil that is left bare to winds and heat of the sun loses its fertility, so "old mother nature" always has a ready supply of seeds to occupy any vacant spaces on the surface of the earth and by certain chemical processes known to her keep up the fertility of the soil so that wasteful man may have food and strength to live and "cuss" the weeds.

RURAL CITIES

James J. Davis, secretary of labor, is very cheerful about the future of American cities. Not that he likes city life. He finds in it many evils. "Our great cities breed ill health. They create centers of discontent. They rob life of many things we were meant to enjoy." But he foresees an end to these evils, because city life and rural life are destined, he thinks, to become the same thing. The cities will grow right out into the country, keeping their own special benefits and annexing the benefits of rural life.

Congested cities will then be unknown, he believes. The man who works in the city will have a home in the country, perhaps 50 or 100 miles away, and will come to his day's work over superhighways on which he can travel comfortably 100 miles an hour. There will be a system of wide, elevated roads shooting from metropolitan business sections in all directions. Factory and office workers alike will flash into town in the morning, park their cars on top of the buildings where they work, and flash back home in the evening. The roads will be brightly lighted at night and beautified with trees and shrubs. Every road will be like a city street, but every home it passes will have fresh air, garden space, flowers, play and recreation of many kinds, and life will be more free, comfortable and happy than ever before.

It is a fine dream, at least. And we do seem to be making progress toward it.

POLITE RIVETING

The Irving Trust company of New York City is erecting a 50-story skyscraper in Wall Street. That is not unusual. But there is something startling in the company's humane and polite methods.

In the first place, the blasting was done at night, so as not to annoy office workers and pedestrians in that district. A few clerks working overtime because of the stock crash heard the blasting, but most people escaped it.

Now the steel structure is about to go up, and business neighbors on Wall Street have received the following courteous letter from the president of the Irving Trust:

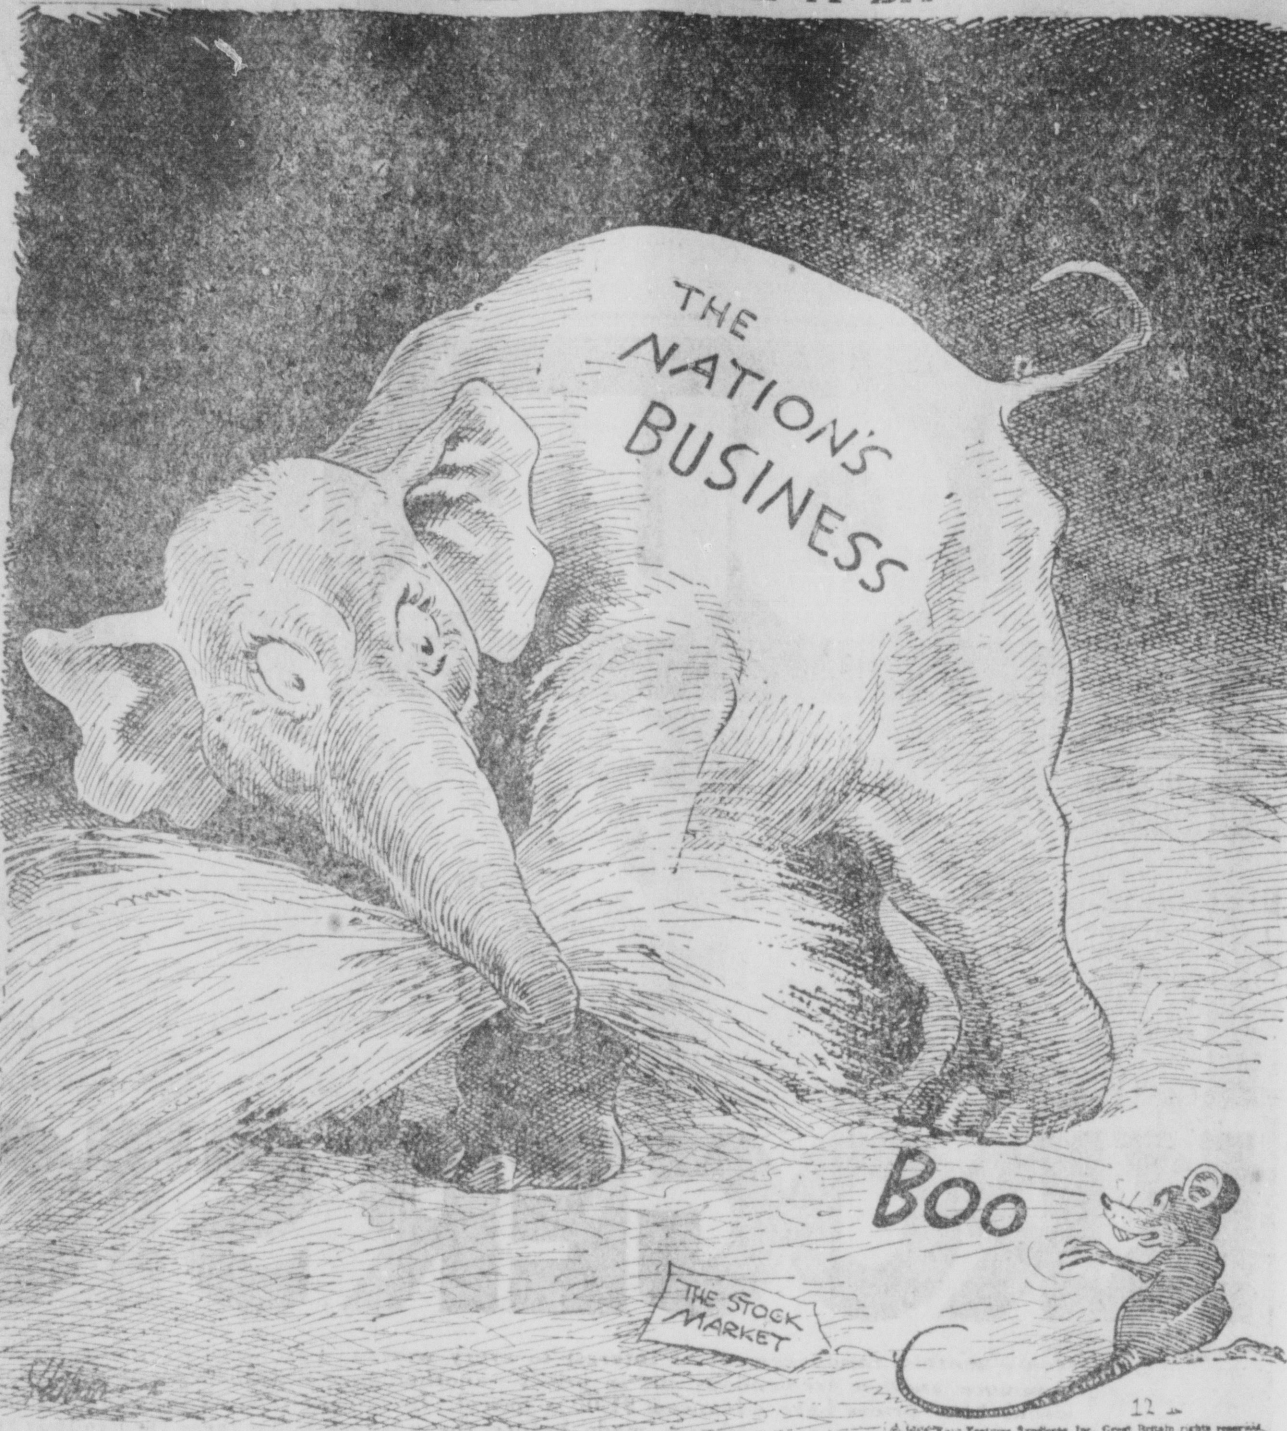

"May we hope you will bear with us as patiently as possible during the unavoidably noisy weeks that lie just ahead while the steel frame of our headquarters building at One Wall Street is going up? To us, naturally enough, the sound of riveting means gratifying progress toward completion of the building. To our neighbors it means a most unwelcome distraction.

"Realizing this and keenly regretting the necessity for it, we are glad to tell you our builder is pressing the work at top speed. His schedule and the present season of closed windows will at least minimize your discomfort."

And such is human psychology that the letter itself helps to minimize that discomfort. Much suffering from noise is aggravated by indignation at the cause of it. It is this case the suffering will be eased by appreciation of one banker's thoughtfulness.

What China needs is to organize her revolutionists into rotary clubs.

DOESN'T SCARE A BIT

"The Masked Hostess"

by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXX.
WHEN Nathalie saw, unknown to them from the top of the staircase, Stefano and Ferris standing below her; and heard Ferris greet Stefano like a familiar friend and Stefano answer that he was prepared to give Ferris the information he needed if Ferris was ready to pay; Nathalie was sure that Ferris was on hand to take her into custody and that Stefano was about to betray her. She was shocked and horrified. But had the caution to step out of the line of their vision softly and wait where she was until she heard them walk away. Then, her hands shaking so that she was scarcely able to accomplish it, she removed her dancing slippers and in stocking feet hurried as fast as she dared to her room and locked the heavy door behind her.

Inside she flung herself on the bed and lay there sobbing until the very intensity of her emotion and terror exhausted her and she began to grow calmer and wonder what there was for her to do. Because the heavy shutters on the windows of her room were all drawn it was pitch dark in them, and because the window shades were down and fastened it was stifling and hot. The clock on her mantle struck and she noted the hour—seven.

It was the deliberate and serene striking of the small French clock which roused her to the realization that she could not lie where she was forever, and she began to cry again as she wondered why she had been left undisturbed. Why Stefano and Ferris, or assuredly Ferris, if Stefano was too cowardly to face her after betraying her to Ferris, had not come up and demanded that she open the door in the name of the law.

As she lay still longer and no one came, she remembered what her maid had told her. That no one could unlock the heavy steel door behind which she lay if the inside key of it had been turned and that Nathalie had all the keys there were. As this thought came to her she was sure that the treachery which had been wrought against her was deeper than ever.

That the sole reason for the door being guarded her was that it was intended that she should make herself her own prisoner.

In her anguish her thoughts were less troubled about what would happen to her when she was finally Ferris's captive, than about the disgrace to her whole family connection which would be the inevitable result of her being taken into custody. She thought of Sylvia, her cousin—in love and engaged to be married. What a blow to Sylvia's pride her arrest would be.

Mrs. Rufus Sampson is visiting in Portsmouth and Pike-co.

Mrs. Dolle Leach and daughter of Commercial Point have the mumps.

Mrs. Frank Cox of Laurelville is on the sick list.

Mrs. Ella Drum has returned to

Then she thought of Sloan. And again she turned her face to her pillow and wept afresh.

The day was not outside, and it was her need of air which made her finally struggle up from the bed and grope her way to one of the windows through which some filters of light made bright patches on the floor.

She loosed the window catch, then opened one of the heavy board shutters; part way and very cautiously. Relief flooded her when she peeped, again cautiously, down through the angle it made with the window sill, to the ground below.

She had expected there would be a guard there, watching and waiting for some stir among the fastened windows. But no one was below. She opened the shutter full way then and drawing a chair to the window, rested in it while she took deep draughts of the refreshing air.

Her clock struck again. Eight. And then she began to wonder at the silence of the house. For as long as she had been in it there had always been small noises about it in the early mornings, as cleaners moved in the grounds outside. As she listened and still no sounds reached her she became convinced that no one was in the house but herself.

It came to her that if this were true she might escape from it, reach Pound's bank in some way, and having drawn out her money there, go straight from it to her aunt's at Westbury. She went and lay down on her bed again to think the possibility over. After pondering it long and wearily—her mind was anything but clear—she decided that she was surely alone in the house and that Ferris and Stefano, believing that she did not imagine that any bargain lay between them, had gone elsewhere to consult about her case and in the conviction that she suspected nothing and had retired to bed—perhaps bargain further and raise the price which Stefano was to receive.

Then she heard a motor car go on the road and the commonplace sound of its passing suddenly filled her with a fierce desire for the safe and usual life that was going on everywhere—it seemed to her she lay at the First. The house, as she lay there in dread, became dreadful and intolerable to her as the vanished motor car left the air of all the grounds outside still and silent again. She determined to escape it at any cost.

Leaving her bed she got quickly out of the dancing frock she still had on and into a day dress. She scrubbed her makeup and rouge from her face and tossed her dark hair transformation and her mask on the floor. Then she heard

Sweets Have a Place in Diet of Children

In Moderate Amounts They Are Valuable, Says Authority, Warning Against Excess.

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

CHILDREN should be taught to form good food habits. The time to undertake such teaching is when they are very young. They should be given the combinations of food that will provide the best nutrition possible for their growing years. What we might call the many-sided foods—meat, milk, breadstuffs, fruits and vegetables—these contain the life-giving food elements and when combined properly, they form the ideal diet for the child, as well as for the adult.

One-sided foods, such as sweets, have their place in the diet, but they must be kept in their proper place, and supplied in proper quantity. Then they will not detract from the good effect derived from other and, perhaps, more nourishing foods.

Most children crave sweets. This is a natural craving, and should be considered in the diet of a child. However the sweets must be taken in moderation. If eaten to excess, candy and any other concentrated sweet is exceedingly harmful.

There are several food substances which must be included in the diet in proper combination if we are to maintain good health. They are the proteins, carbohydrates, including sugar and starches, the important mineral elements, and the vitamins.

In breadstuffs we find our chief source of calories. But such foods lack two other needed elements—the minerals and vitamins.

Meats are just about as deficient in the two elements, minerals and vitamins. For this reason breadstuffs and meat are not well combined for nutrition's sake, unless they are added to by using fruits and vegetables, thereby making up this deficiency.

Fruits and vegetables do contain much of the important minerals and vitamins which make them ideally suited to combine with meat or breadstuffs. Dr. McCollum, the eminent nutritionist, has given fruits and vegetables the name of "protective foods." They serve to protect us from the deficiencies in the staple foods, such as bread and meats.

Milk is probably the most efficient food. It is also the most economical. It is ideal for the growing child. We might say the perfect diet for a child is bread and milk, built around by fruits and vegetables.

Sugar, that is, white sugar, must be classed as a one-sided food. It is deficient in proteins, mineral and vitamin content, so that when used in concentrated form, and to excess, it becomes an unwholesome food.

But children will continue to crave sweets, and this need can be met by combining some sweet such as jam or sweet desserts, in the meal. The serving of such sweets as jam and desserts will make a meal attractive—or the child who will not usually eat the necessary foods without some sweet, in moderate amounts sweets can serve a useful purpose, but taken to excess they are distinctly harmful for the growing child, who needs all the nourishment he can get at this time of his life.

THEATRES

AT THE MET

Harold Lloyd has set many records during his picture career, but one of the most unique is the fact that in the 14 or so years that he has been making comedies, only five leading ladies have appeared opposite him.

Bebe Daniels was one of the first of Hollywood's lights to shine opposite the bespectacled comedian, starting with him in his first Lonesome Luke pictures, and appearing with him until the first of his two-reel comedies, after he had adopted the famous horn-rimmed "cheaters."

Then came Mildred Davis, another Lloyd discovery, who, from a Tacoma schoolgirl became one of the most prominent leading ladies in pictures. Jobyna Ralston was next. She appeared in a number of Harold Lloyd's famous features. Subsequently Ann Christy did one lead with the comedian in "Speedy."

When he started preparations for his sound and dialog picture, "Welcome Danger," which is at the Met theatre this week Lloyd and his staff spent several months scouting for a new leading lady. Finally they chose Barbara Kent, an actress of great beauty and personal charm, whose voice was as gratifying as her screening qualities. The little 19-year old girl from Alberta proved that she was to gain new honors when the completed film was enthusiastically received in a preview at Los Angeles.

AT THE CLIFTONA

Dorothy Mackaill, who gave such an admirable portrayal as the circus performer in "The Barker" will be seen again in another "hardboiled" role in "The Great Divide," her new First National picture at the Cliftona theatre Friday and Saturday.

Miss Mackaill now plays an emancipated modern girl whose "whoopie" ideas of life clash with those of the man she both hates and loves.

The blonde star has made a great success in her recent pictures in creating a new type of screen vamp—a girl whose bark is worse than her bite. She plays such parts in "Hard to Get" and in "Two Weeks Off."

"The Great Divide" is an adaptation of William Vaughn Moody's famous stage classic. The story is laid in the beautiful mountain country of Arizona, and the picture is embellished with striking scenic photography.

Ian Keith is Miss Mackaill's leading man. Others in the cast are Myrna Loy, who portrays one of her colorful dancing roles as a half-breed Spanish girl, Lucien Littlefield, Ben Hendricks, James Ford, Creighton Hale, George Fawcett, Roy Stewart and Claude Gillingwater.

AT THE GRAND

With Marion Nixon, Richard Walling and Mary Nolan playing the starring parts the Grand theatre picture, "Silk and Saddles" is certain to be a success.

The story is of the best jockey in track history—until a whirl of the night clubs, dissipation and wild women brought him to dishonor.

The 12th Chapter of "Pirates of Panama" is also a part of Friday's program.

Old Den of Pirates
It was from the kashah, the Cadel of the days, that the Moorish pirates looked down to spy out the merchant ships that sailed the sea. And from this tiny harbor they put out to snare their prey. It was in this harbor that the American ships finally put a stop to the piratical supremacy of the Mediterranean.

Williamsport, O., Dec. 9, 1929.
Dear Santa Claus.
As Christmas is almost here I thought I had better write you a letter telling you what I want. I am 11 years old and in the sixth grade of school. I have been as good as possible during the year. I want a sled or a typewriter, a camera or a tennis racket, a sweater, and some good books and games. I would like to have some candy, oranges and nuts, but don't forget the poor children and give them plenty. Well, good-bye till Christmas.

I am your little friend,
Helen Hill.

Williamsport, O. R. 1.

Williamsport, O., Dec. 9, 1929.

Dear Santa Claus:—

As Christmas is almost here I thought I had better write you a letter telling you what I want. I am 11 years old and in the sixth grade of school. I have been as good as possible during the year. I want a sled or a typewriter, a camera or a tennis racket, a sweater, and some good books and games. I would like to have some candy, oranges and nuts, but don't forget the poor children and give them plenty. Well, good-bye till Christmas.

I am your little friend,
Helen Hill.

A really good stand of grass is sometimes the only measure possible in a hilly orchard, against loss of soil and fertility by erosion.

ATHLETIC CLUB ANNEXES THIRD VICTORY, 73 TO 30

Boyce Parks With 11 Field Goals and Four Fouls Lead C. A. C. Scoring—Team Scores Ten Points Before Eagles Score—Locals Get 26 Points in Last Period—Team Has 166 Points in Three Games Against Opponents 66.

Completely bewildering their opponents with their fast passing attack and by making about 99 percent of their shots, the Circleville Athletic club basketball team Thursday won its third victory of the season in as many games with the Eagles from London as the victors. The score, 73 to 30, was the biggest that has been registered here in many a moon.

This apparently walk-away score doesn't tell everything about this basketball game. The club started as it has its other two games by scoring a number of points before the other team has learned the fray has gotten under way. Ten points were chalked up by the club before London scored a foul goal. The tip off was almost always a battle but even when London did get the ball a club player would intercept a pass then with several lightning passes a C. A. C. man would get loose under the net for a goal.

The first quarter ended 18 to 3. The second period was more evenly fought with the locals scoring 12 counters against 10 for their opponent. Five field goals were divided among as many London players while eight of the Clubs' 12 points went to White, Club left forward.

OPEN UP AT HALF
Then with the score 30 to 13 at the opening of the third quarter the Club started going. Seventeen points were scored before the session had ended with Parks contributing nine of them through three field goals and a like manner of foul throws. The Eagles scored nine points for their quota four of them being counted by Weimer, guard.

Leading by a score of 47 to 22, the Club put its offense in high gear and scored 26 points in the final session. Not even a tornado could have stopped those purple jerseyed tossers as they executed a tip-off, took the ball and passed under the basket to a mate for an additional pair of points.

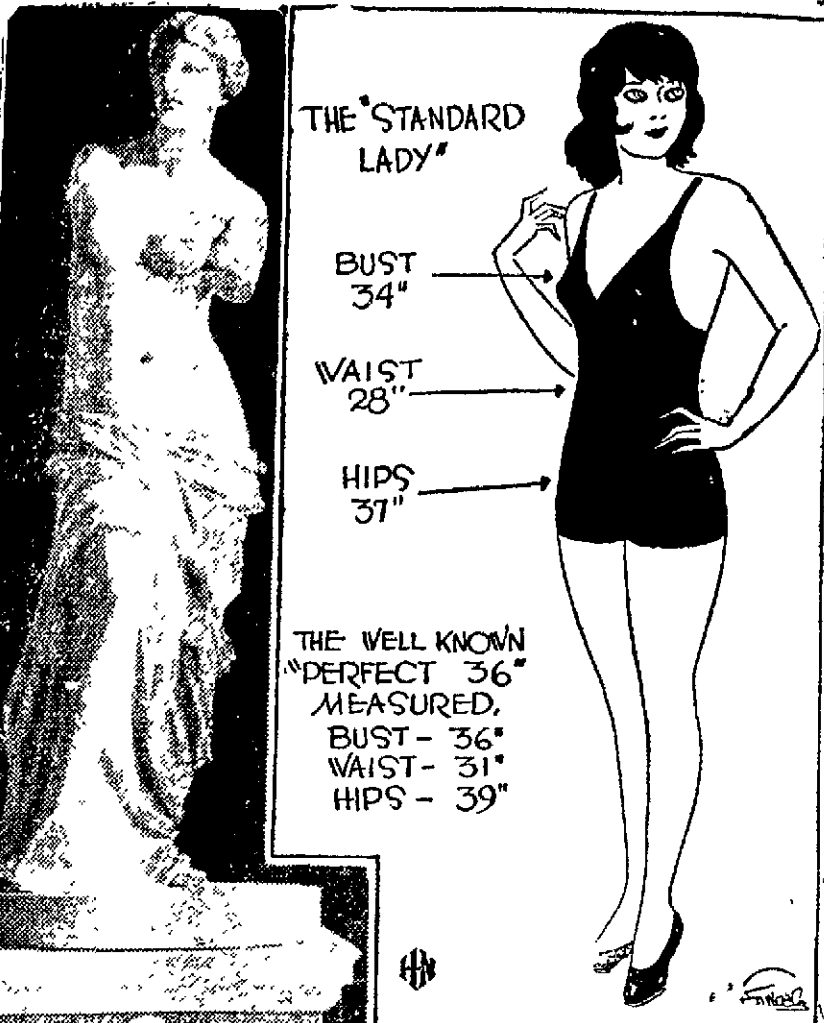

The last period was a veritable track meet with the ball going to center, then to the Club basket, then back to center for another tip off and the same scoring process. Parks scored five field goals in this period, Steele contributed four, Wallace hit for three and Merriman came through with one action goal to make the quota.

The game ended 73 to 30.

PARKS GETS HOT
Boyce Parks, Club center-forward, was high point man for the contest with 26 counters, four less than the entire London team scored. His quota came on 11 field goals and four foul shots. Art Steel was close behind him with the eight field shots and a free throw Howard White, playing only the first half at forward, scored six field buckets.

The crowd which witnessed the contest was an excited one with very few persons leaving the gymnasium under the final timers' whistle had blown. Dordy Courtwright, Club guard, did not enter the game because of an injured knee.

The London game gives the Club a perfect standing of three games won and none lost. In the first game they defeated Newark, 50 to 20; the second saw Washington C. H. go down under a 43-16 score; the third game was a walkaway from London, 73 to 30.

HIGH TOSSERS OFF TO GAME

Nine Players Make Trip To Marysville, Leaving Here At 4:30.

The Circleville high school Tigers basket tossers were to play the tough Marysville high school court team at Marysville Friday evening in one of the seasons acid tests for the local team.

Nine players, Davis, Russell, Nickerson, Clark, Zeimer, Wilson, Hill, Good and Radcliff, with Coach J. M. Guthrie, principal, E. I. Gephart and a student manager made the trip, leaving Circleville at 4:30 p. m. Marysville's team is said not to be quite so tough as it has been in the last few years with only one veteran from the last year's team back. But Coach Kingmore's ability to throw a good team together is well known and the local heavies are taking nothing for granted.

LUTHERAN BROTHERHOOD EDGES CLOUDS, 28 TO 23

Sensational Shots By Marvin Rhoades In Last Few Minutes of Play Brings Churchmen To Tie At End of Game—Brotherhood Scores Five Points in Overtime Period Holding Grantmen Scoreless.

Led by a sensational basket shooter, Marvin Rhoades, the Lutheran Brotherhood basketball team stepped out in its first court contest of the season Thursday evening to edge the Grant Flying Clouds in an overtime court game. The score was 28 to 23 and of the Lutherans 28 points, this Rhoades man scored 17.

With only two minutes to play the Clouds held a lead of seven points but right then Rhoades did the seemingly impossible. He scored three field goals in rapid succession, and with Troutman's free throw just before the whistle blew the Lutheran tied the score at 23-all.

Dutch Weller, Cloud forward, had a chance to win the contest, when, with 20 seconds to play and the score tied, he was given a free throw. The ball fell short of the basket and although Weller got the ball on the rebound and took a shot the leather just wouldn't go through the hoop.

Then in the overtime period, the Lutherans won the game.

RHODES AGAIN

Troutman scored first on a foul that gave his team enough lead to win the game. Dribbling down the side of the floor, Rhoades heaved the ball with one hand over his head and it didn't even hesitate, it just cut those strings like a bullet going through cheese. List added a field goal for the Lutherans total of five points.

The game started fast and the end of the first quarter saw the teams tied at five points each. The Lutherans went ahead at half time by a score of 11 to 9. In the third quarter with Heeter leading the offense. The Grantmen scored enough points to take a lead of 17 to 14.

Then came the tell tale final period. Maloney, Cloud captain and guard, was forced to leave the game late in the fourth period when he committed his fourth foul while guarding Rhoades. Weller, Cloud forward, went out when he fouled Troutman for the fourth time in the overtime session.

The Lutherans were given 18 free throws, 10 of which were converted to scores. The Clouds had six charity tosses, scoring one.

RHEUMATISM.

MR. HARRY DUKE
"Konjola certainly has helped me wonderfully and I feel that others should know of the results it has given me," said Mr. Harry Duke, 726 Kerr street, Columbus, Ohio. "I had been suffering from rheumatism for a number of years. The pains centered in my right hip and was so intense that at times I had to lay off from work. Constipation was another ailment that caused me much misery."

"Upon the recommendation of a friend I started taking Konjola, and four bottles brought wonderful relief. My bowels were regulated and I could almost feel the poisons being swept from my system. Daily the rheumatic pains became less severe. I know that in a few more weeks I will be entirely free from that, too. It is a pleasure to endorse such a splendid medicine as I have found Konjola to be."

Konjola is sold in Circleville at Hamilton and Ryan drug store, and by all the best druggists throughout this entire section.

Says Sam: Nature was in one of her infrequent moods of efficiency when she so arranged the seasons that the same shovel would do duty in the coal bin and on the snowy sidewalk.

Soldiers In Blue Are Honor Guests At Holiday Dinner

The warmth and cheer of Christmas, and the appreciation shown to soldiers in blue, filled the hearts of four veterans Thursday, when they were entertained at the annual Christmas dinner served by the Daughters of the Veterans of the Civil War. This Christmas dinner for the veterans is an annual event of the Catherine Wolfley Hedges tent, at which the veterans and their wives and widows are the honored guests.

Nearly 50 guests were served in the large dining room of Memorial hall. All eyes were attracted to the four veterans who moved slowly to take their places at the tables. Last year there were six, and the fading line of blue has decreased to four faithful old soldiers proudly wearing their badges, and halting at the landings on the stairs, for breath and strength to go further.

In the dining room holiday colors streamed from the chandeliers and occupied important places in the table decorations where they vied with red, white and blue, dear to the hearts of the old union veterans. The flag was displayed at various places for the occasion and on the tables were runners of the national colors.

On the guests' table there was a Christmas tree glittering with tinsel and ornaments. Here bouquets too of beautiful red roses, entered into the yuletide note, and harmonized with the red of the flag. All of the bright decorations reached the hearts of the aged soldiers, who enjoyed the bright event with happy thoughts. Other guests at the tables were wives and widows of veterans of the Civil War.

James Graham, George Trimmer, John Goff and Isaac Groves were the four veterans. Mr. Goff and Mr. Groves were accompanied by their wives. Another veteran, Fred Margraff, was unable to be present because of illness. By these few, were the grand army of the Republic represented at the dinner given in their honor and for their deeds on the battle fields of the great Civil War.

The guests enjoyed the splendid chicken dinner while the Christmas spirit prevailed, and greetings exchanged for the coming Yuletide, and hopes expressed for the meeting next year at the Christmas dinner.

The old soldiers left, happy and proud, and wearing red carnations in their buttonholes, gifts of Miss Laura and Miss Emma Mader.

Lewis Miller was a guest, and represented the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War.

After dinner Mrs. Jennie McCrady thanked the Daughters for the dinner and kindness shown them. The veterans and widows had a gleam of sunshine on their faces which more than showed the appreciation that they felt, and which amply repaid the organization for their efforts expended on the occasion.

"A rose to the living is more, Than sumptuous wreaths to the dead; 'Tis graciously given before, The departing spirit has fled."

Guests for the dinner were James Graham, George Trimmer, Mr. and Mrs. John Goff, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Goff, Mrs. Mary Morris, Mrs. Elizabeth Peters, Mrs. Kate Reichelderfer, Mrs. Laura Hughes, Mrs. Jenny McCrady, Mrs. Frances Chrissinger, Mrs. Amos Wilson, Mrs. Samuel Kindler, Mrs. Samuel Ward, Mrs. John Bowsher, Mrs. Sally Fitzpatrick, Miss Sally Parsons and Miss Marie Brown.

Committees in charge of the affair were Mrs. Ida Rader, Mrs. E. S. Neuding, Mrs. Orrin Baker, Mrs. Mattie Leist, Mrs. May Tolbert, Mrs. Lucy B. Price, Mrs. Edna Moon and Mrs. Lewis Miller. A good sum was realized by the Catherine Wolfley Hedges tent from a sale of articles displayed in the post room. The regular sewing club of the organization will be held Wednesday, Dec. 18, at two o'clock at the home of Mrs. Robert Gearhart on N. Court-st. A good attendance is asked.

On Tuesday evening, Dec. 17, in connection with the regular meeting, there will be a Christmas party for the pleasure of the members of the tent. Mrs. Lucy B. Price, Mrs. Ed Shanton, Mrs. May Tolbert and Mrs. Lewis Miller will be in charge. The meeting will start at 7 o'clock.

Miss Sally Lynch went to Columbus Friday to spend the weekend with her sister, Mrs. Charles Kellstadt.

PARTY LAST WEEK AT COUNTRY HOME

Miss Ruth Fetherolf entertained a number of her friends to a coasting party at her home Monday evening, Dec. 2nd.

The guests arrived at 8 and all went coasting later returning where the remainder of the evening was spent in playing cards.

Those present were: Misses Kathryn Walter, Lucia Kreider, Elizabeth Heffner, Regene Binkley, Pauline Neff, Margie Schaal and Ruth Fetherolf; Messrs. James Hartranft, Albert Spangler, Paul Neff, Ernest Francis, Harold Stump, Lloyd G. Armstrong and Frank Binkley. Dainty refreshments were served at a late hour and all departed reporting a very nice time.

AT DINNER IN ASHVILLE

Mrs. Glenn Nickerson and her guest, Miss Helen Cramlich of Allentown, Pa., and Mrs. Orion King were guests Thursday at a dinner party in Ashville, given in honor of Miss Cramlich. Mrs. Anna Ball was the gracious hostess. A three course dinner was served at noon, to eight guests seated at a handomely appointed table bright with Christmas colors.

GUESTS ATTEND BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Colins Young of Lima, and Mrs. Harold Eveland and Miss Margaret Weldon of Circleville were substitute guests Thursday night when Mrs. George Crites entertained her bridge club at her home on S. Court-st. Miss Allison Delaplaine won the first prize and Mrs. Harold Eveland with the second and high score won second.

The club in another week will have a Christmas party at the home of Miss Delaplaine on N. Court-st.

YOUNG MATRON IS HOSTESS

Twenty-four guests were entertained Thursday night by Mrs. Don Myers to an evening bridge party at her home in The Wellington on S. Court-st. Santa Claus talks, and prizes in Christmas packages during the bridge game marked the Christmas season.

The hostess served refreshments at the small tables, which were centered by tall burning red tapers. Candles of this shade also were lighted about the rooms.

Three lovely gifts for bridge scores were won by Mrs. Paul Helwag, Mrs. Sidney Beechey and Mrs. Sterling Lamb.

ROYAL NEIGHBORS ELECT OFFICERS

At the election of officers Thursday night at the regular meeting of the Royal Neighbors of America the following were named for the ensuing year: Oracle, Mrs. Rose Wolfe; recorder, Miss Nevada Armstrong; receiver, Mrs. Myrtle Grimm; past oracle, Mrs. Virginia Purcell; chancellor, Mrs. Sadie White; vice-oracle, Mrs. Catherine Pierce; marshal, Mrs. Dave Morgan; musician, Mrs. Mabel Scott; physician, Dr. A. W. Holman; managers, Mrs. Florence Van Riper for one year, chairman; Mrs. Nanny Fowler, manager for two years; and Mrs. Dolly Lane for three years.

Following the election of officers, and the regular business lunch was served to the members. The Royal neighbors of America will have a Christmas party on Thursday, December 26, in the lodge rooms.

AT SHOWER FOR TEACHER

Miss Elizabeth Abernethy of Columbus, formerly of Circleville was among the teachers from the McGuffey school in Columbus to honor Miss Carrie Mae Blair at a shower Thursday. Miss Blair will be married to Dr. Robert James Wherry on Monday, Dec. 23rd.

SMITH MAKES CAPITOL TRIP

Ex-Gov. of New York Gets Loud Applause When He Enters Navy Office.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—His famous brown derby cocked jauntily on his head, and the inevitable cigar tilted upward in a corner of his mouth, ex-Gov. Al Smith came to Washington today to see about getting some governmental cooperation in the construction of a dirigible mooring mast atop the towering new Waldorf hotel which is to be built in New York.

Although he is a business man now, and his trip to the capital has no connection with politics, the former Democratic candidate found it utterly impossible to escape the crowds and the spotlight of public attention that have been his lot in recent years.

When the former Governor showed up at the Navy department at 10:15 o'clock for a conference with Secretary of the Navy Adams. He found the spacious halls of the building jammed with hundreds of clerks and employees.

He must have thought he was still campaigning for the presidency, for as he entered the building a ripple of applause started. It rolled down the crowded halls, gathering in volume until it became a veritable bedlam of cheers and hand-clapping.

So great was the crush in the halls that Gov. Smith could hardly get through to the door of Secretary Adams' office. He was escorted by police, and they with the guards about the buildings, finally cleared a narrow passageway after much shoving and pushing.

"Al" took it with his customary grin, although he plainly was somewhat embarrassed at it all. "Hey," he said once, "this is a business trip."

This is indeed an opportune Coat event. The season's most select fabrics—the advanced shades—the fashionable Princess Silhouette that is so youthful and flattering, as well as the slenderizing straight line models. And models for the larger women too. All are here in this phenomenal value-giving event. The fine fur trimmings add much to their attractiveness. Don't delay making your selection.

"LET'S WAKE UP OR DIE RIGHT"

By John Hegele

Are we going to let the pep club idea drop out without even giving it a try? Let's "make up or die right." I have an idea that would make Y Day school look sick when they come down here January 17 from the "big city up the Scioto Trail" for our first game. They think we are a bunch of dead stumps, but let's surprise them.

What is the matter with the Athletic Association? We haven't heard anything about it since we elected officers and paid up. Let's make the Association useful by turning it into a pep club. Here is my idea of starting it. The officials, Loring Davis, Maynard McCallister and Doris Peters, meet and make plans for it. Have the Association members meet and practice yells. Plans for entertainment between halves and before each game. Have as many members as possible yell. See that they stick together. It is advisable to have a teacher there as supervisor, because not one of the officials could be at hand as each will be down there on that gym floor fighting for our school. But who will be the cheerleaders? Someone might ask. That is easy to solve. Appoint two to assist ours if they need them.

If this idea works out, as I think it will, we shall not only "pep up" the basketball squad but also the whole city of Circleville. If we can't organize a pep club to yell for a team, we don't deserve to feel proud when they win, and certainly should feel ashamed to crab when they lose.

Let's get busy and start something. If the officials don't intend to do anything they should say so and be done with it.

WHAT COURSES ARE EASY?

By securing official data of number of pupils in each subject, the inquiring reporter has been able to determine by approximate percentage the difficulty of various high school studies.

Fellow students do you find your "snap course" here?

According to the percentage of students making the honor roll, according to their difficulty:

Those in which less than five percent make honors: advanced bookkeeping, advanced geometry, stenography, bookkeeping, business English, and geography.

Those in which five to ten percent made honors: arithmetic, manual training, and occupations.

Those in which 10 to 20 percent made honors: algebra, French, modern history, and American history.

Those in which 20 to 25 percent made honors: freshmen—Latin, physics, social civics, junior English and English literature.

Home economics with 42 percent and office training with 89 percent seem to be the easiest subjects.

According to the percentage of students failing the following subjects are arranged as to their difficulty:

Stenography and advanced bookkeeping fail 30 to 35 percent.

Geometry, freshmen Latin and sophomore English fail 25 to 30 percent.

Bookkeeping, geography, modern history, and Caesar fail 15 to 20 percent.

Algebra and Cicero fail 10 to 15 percent.

Advanced algebra, arithmetic, freshmen English, junior English, and modern history fail 10 to 5 percent.

American history, French, general science, advanced geometry and manual training fail five to one percent.

The easiest courses in which we usually find no failures seem to be: English literature, social civics, office training, occupations, physics, journalism, home economics, business English and advanced French.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS FOR JACK, BUT ROBBER LOOKS
HIS WAY

Jack Chaffin, sophomore, was a witness to the robbery of the Davidson Hardware store Saturday, Dec. 7. Jack says that he wasn't frightened when the robber, who had been looking over some guns, loaded one and told Mr. Davidson that he would take the gun and told Jack not to follow him. Jack said, "If the burglar hand't been looking my way, I would have jumped on him." At a ole' fight, Jack.

SOPHS HAVE CHRISTMAS PARTY

The sophomore class celebrated with a big Christmas party at the high school Friday evening. The chief object of this function was to let the freshman aware of the fact that they couldn't put anything over on the sophomores, since the yearlings had already enjoyed their party.

The guests gathered in the auditorium, where a delightful program was rendered.

The program opened with a piano solo by Dorothy M. Glick; Cornet solo, Charles Plum; dialogue, Waldo Hilyard and Dudley Mills; saxophone solo, Gaylord Rose; music contest; vocal solo, Nina Denman; selection, orchestra; vocal solo, Fred Watts; piano solo, Cennith Carothers; vocal solo, Marie Richey; clarinet solo, Waldo Hilyard; dialogue, Alice Briggs and Dorothy L. Glick; violin solo, Gerald McCreary; piano solo, Donald Waite; Finis, orchestra.

The guests were then escorted to the gym where a delightful lunch of strawberry jello, minced ham sandwiches, stuffed olives, potato chips and cocoa was served.

The faculty guests included, Mr. and Mrs. V. D. Keeler, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Fetherlin, Misses Velma Watson and Margaret Mattinson and Mr. Fred Watts.

ALL STATE CHORUS
ANNOUNCED

At the State Teachers Association meeting at Columbus in December the All State Chorus will again be a feature. The program will be given in the auditorium of Central high school at 7:45 p. m. Thursday, Dec. 26.

It seemed advisable this year to limit the size of the chorus to 400 members. The maximum allowed from each school is 16.

Due to the splendid quality of work done by the pupils from Circleville high school in previous years, it has been allowed the full quota of 16. The following are those who will enter: Peggy Courtwright, Mary Mae Haswell, Ellen Leist, Lucille Kirkwood, Margie Hunsicker, Pauline Acord, Helen Yates, Jean Crowe, Howard Greeno, Earl Millington, Edwin Haacker, Robert Rector, James Brown, Hugh Cartwright, John Heiskell, Charles Kirkpatrick, and Helen K. Wittich, director.

CLUBS TO ATTEND EPISCOPAL CHURCH SERVICES

The decision of the Hi-Y to attend the Christmas Eve service at the Episcopal church was made at the meeting held Tuesday noon in the physics department. An invitation for the Girl Reserves to join in attendance to the service has been extended.

The regular program committee composed of Malcolm Russell, Richard Nickerson and Edgar Clark was advised to begin the preparation of a program for this year's Christmas visit to the Home and Hospital.

Treasurer Richard Nickerson read the day's scripture lesson and Clarence Barnhart led a discussion of school sportsmanship.

STUDENTS ARE BOY SCOUTS

The Kiwanis club of Circleville sponsoring the Boy Scout troop 107 organized by Tom A. Renick, former letter man of C. H. S. has the following members: sophomores, Wilbur Funk; freshmen, patrol leaders Ned Griner and Lincoln Mader; John Mader, Paul Rooney, Ray Davis and Robert Wilson; eight grade, patrol leader Oakley Warner, William Weldon, John Robinson and Junior Dunlap; seventh grade, Daie Reichelderfer, James Rowe, Robert Watts, Rodrick Watts, Walter Osborne, Walter Pickle and William Kellstadt. Gerald Leist of Washington-twip, eight grade is also a member.

CHAPEL

The Circleville high school orchestra played in chapel, Monday, for the first time this school year, C. F. Zaenglein directing. "Academe Professional," "Old Favorites," "When My Dreams Come True," "My Song of the Nile," "Victor Herbert's Favorites," and "Our Defenders" composed the list of pieces played.

The program was supplemented by the soloists Howard Greeno, violinist, and Gaylord Rose, who played a saxophone. Greeno "Am I Blue" and "Love" and sang "My Song of the Nile." Rose played "Painting the Clouds with Sunshine" and "Baby, Oh, Where Can You Be?"

MUSIC SCHEDULE

The music schedule announced for the week beginning Dec. 16, is announced by Helen K. Wittich, as follows: Monday, eighth grade, first period; junior and senior chorus, second period; All State Chorus, fourth period; freshmen, fifth period; Thursday, sophomore chorus, sixth period; Friday and All State Chorus, first period.

Announcements or Christmas programs in all grades will be found in Monday's RED AND BLACK.

HOLIDAY PERIOD SET

At a recent meeting of the Board of Education, it was decided that school will close Friday, Dec. 20, for the Christmas holidays. Students will be dismissed for New Year's Day, Jan. 1, but will attend school Dec. 30, and 31 and Jan. 2 and 3.

MARK AND PACK RIGHT BEFORE MAILING PACKAGES

For those People Who Think They Could Put Out A Better Paper Than The Staff of the Present Year Does, We Print This:

Getting out a paper.

Getting out a paper is a picnic.

If we print jokes, people say we are silly or vulgar.

If we don't, they say we are adolescent and too serious.

If we publish original matter, they say we lack variety.

If we print things from other papers, we are lazy.

If we are not rustling news, we are not attending to business.

If we don't print the contributions we lack appreciation, and the paper belongs to some society.

If we do print them, the paper is full of junk.

Like as some one will say we stole this from some other paper—so we did.

"DON'T FEEL LIKE THAT"

If the world is waiting for the sunrise,

Cheer up; it's sure to have a place for you;

It's only lazy people who surmise, That every day is Monday Blue.

Just keep your courage, neath your hat,

Don't feel discouraged; all will soon be right;

Blue? Take my advice: Don't feel like that,

The dark cloud is lined with silver bright.

Aim high; the higher, ideal's sure a work-rack,

And a tonic to a failing strength and mind;

Lonesome? Keep saying, "Don't feel like that,"

You'll see friends aren't hard to find.

Don't keep thinking of the things you lack,

Sorrow comes with riches so they say;

Doubtful? Don't feel like that, Tomorrow is another day.

'Tisn't hard to deal out a plain fact

To the people of this day and age; When understood, the motto

"Don't feel like that,"

Is good advice, though it may be the rage.

Mrs. Arthur McNeal.

Helen Kinser.

JUNIORS HOLD BAKE SALE

Saturday, Dec. 14, was set as the date for the Junior bake sale at the junior class meeting held Monday at 3:35 in the study hall. President Rooney appointed the following committee: Mary Ryan, chairman, Edward Bost, Ned Dresbach, Earl Millington, Jeanette Bower, Gladys Jonas, Doris Peters and Mildred Ritt.

A committee composed of Mildred Greenlee for the girls and Ringinald Wilson for the boys was appointed to check the attendance of class meetings as hereafter a penalty of five cents will be imposed upon each person missing a meeting without a written excuse signed by faculty advisor Gertrude Pigman.

TO SELL HOLIDAY GOODIES

A sale of candy and cookies will be open to all pupils Tuesday and Thursday of next week. Phone orders will be taken and deliveries will be made to townspeople. Prices will be reasonable for these scientifically prepared home products.

PYTHIANS ELECT
IN NEW HOLLAND

Officers for the year, 1930, were elected by New Holland Temple No. 517, Pythian Sisters, at the regular meeting of that organization, Tuesday evening. A large attendance was recorded at this meeting.

Following is the list of officers chosen:

Most Excellent Chief, Ida Griffith; Excellent Senior, Iva Heath; Excellent Junior, Laura Grim; Manager, Neva Davis; Mistress of Records and Correspondence, Mae Kibler; Mistress of Finance, Lillie Briggs; Protector, Minnie Ater; Guard, Dora Lyons; Pianist, Mabel Louis.

Three year trustee, Ollie Armstrong; installing Officer, Grace Gooley; Captain of Degree, Grace Ethel Owens; Mistress of Work, Elia Vincent; Rep. to Grand Lodge Lillie Briggs; Alternate, Gracy Shipley; Press Reporter, Mabel Louis.

The date of the annual installation has not yet been announced. This was also the time of the birthday party in honor of those members whose natal anniversaries fall in the months of October, November and December. A delightful social time was enjoyed, delicious refreshments being served upon this occasion.

ANNIVERSARIES
ARE CELEBRATED

The birthday anniversaries of William Briggs, Mrs. Floyd W. James, Mrs. Cecil Briggs and Betty James of New Holland, all of which occur in December, were celebrated, Sunday, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Briggs.

The picnic dinner was served cafeteria style. Those to enjoy the day with the honor guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Briggs and daughters, Alice and Pauline, Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Briggs and daughters, Helen and Benadine, of Circleville; Mr. and Mrs. Willard Peterson and children, of Austin, Mrs. Percy May, C. W. Briggs, Miss Lillie Briggs, S. C. Briggs, Warren Briggs and son, Eugene, Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Briggs and Floyd W. James.

TO DEBATE AT SPRINGFIELD

Miss Medith Beale member of the senior class at Mt. Sterling high school, has added to her numerous other honors the distinction of being Madison county's best declaimer, and will represent that county in the Prince of Peace district event at Springfield. She is president of her class, president of one of the two literary societies, member of the 90-club (scholarship organization), and member of the girls' basketball team of Mt. Sterling high.

Miss Beale is 17 years old. She is the daughter of Jay Beale and resides with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Beale, of Mt. Sterling. Her oratorical training has been in charge of Mrs. D. E. Starr.

SATURDAY MARRIAGE IS ANNOUNCED

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Martha McCain, of S. Court-st. to Mr. George Morrison of Circleville which took place Saturday evening, Dec. 7, at the Methodist parsonage.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Hannah Morrison, of Canal Winchester and is employed at the Necker Motor Co.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison spent Sunday with the bride's father, Mr. Henry Rockwell, at Portsmouth.

DAUGHTERS IN HOTEL PROGRAM

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Wallace and daughter, Marvene, and Mrs. Elmer Clifton and daughter, Betty, motored to Columbus Thursday evening where the children took part in a program at the Seneca hotel. Miss Stella Becker, teacher of dancing presented a group of her pupils at this time for the pleasure of the Columbus Business Women's club, who were banqueting at the hotel Thursday night.

DANCE HERE ON DECEMBER 27.

The only public dance, to date, that will be given in Circleville during the holiday season will be the Roundtown Mistletoe dance at the Elks on Friday, Dec. 27, at the Memorial hall. Invitations will be out the first of next week.

This will be a night when faithful swains will be rewarded, for the ladies are asked on the invitations to bring their boy friends. So the non-chalant young gallants of the city had best be starting belated attentions upon the girls of their choice if they crave an invitation to this dance. The girls will have the upper hand, and are throwing a big holiday party, to which they will invite the light steppers of the community.

Good music has already been engaged and the dance will be one of the big affairs of the week. The hours will be from nine until one with lunch at mid-night.

Miss Elizabeth Roth is chairman. She will be assisted by Miss Margaret Weldon, Miss Evangela Smith, Miss Martha Wilder, Miss Hulda Seyfert, Miss Mary Radcliff, Miss Anne Bennett, Miss Evelyn Adkins and Mrs. Clark Will.

DINNER BRIDGE FOR HIGH SCHOOL SET

The attention of the high school set was centered Thursday evening on the dinner-bridge at which Miss Zelma Hoffman was hostess at her home on S. Court-st. The red and green of the Yuletide, decorated the rooms and the small tables on which an elaborate three course dinner was served, were also decorated in these colors. Santa Claus with big packs and smiling faces leaned smugly against the water goblets, which gleamed from the light of Christmas candles in the center of each table. The candle holders were crystal, tied with her tulle.

ELEVATOR OFFICERS TO HOLD MEETING

Will Consider Problems of Management With Agricultural Extension Men

Officers of farmer-owned elevators in a dozen Ohio counties are being invited to attend a series of meetings arranged by the Agricultural Extension Service of the Ohio State University this winter, to discuss problems of elevator management and of soils, crops, and feeding which are of interest to both officers and patrons of the elevators.

Each meeting will include in its program talks by members of the Agricultural Extension Service and also open discussions by elevator men themselves, on any subject which they wish to raise. A dozen or more elevators are located in each county where a meeting will be held.

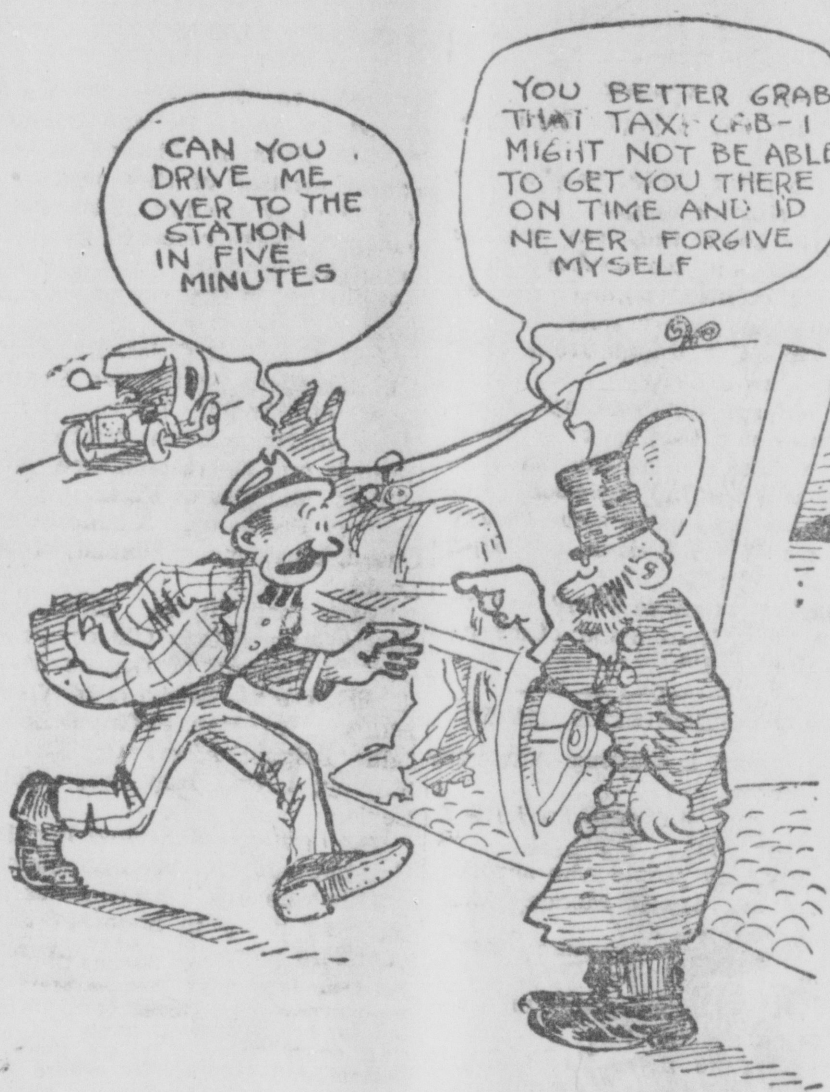

"Dairy Feeds and Feeding" will be the topic of C. L. Blackman and Ivan McKellip, extension specialist in dairying. B. A. Wallace, specialist in marketing, will give the results of some studies in elevator margins and costs of operation. The county agent of each county where a meeting is held will suggest methods in which elevator managers and agents may work together. Wallace will head a round table devoted to the newly-created Federal Farm Board and its related organizations, as they are of interest to elevators. Meetings thus far definitely scheduled are as follows: Norwalk, for Huron and Erie counties, Dec. 11; Ashland, for Ashland-co, Dec. 12; Mansfield, for Richland-co, Dec. 13; Delaware for Delaware-co, Dec. 17, and Medina for Medina-co Dec. 18. Other meetings will be held in January and later through the winter, in other counties.

Similar series of meetings have been held by the agriculture extension service each year since 1925.

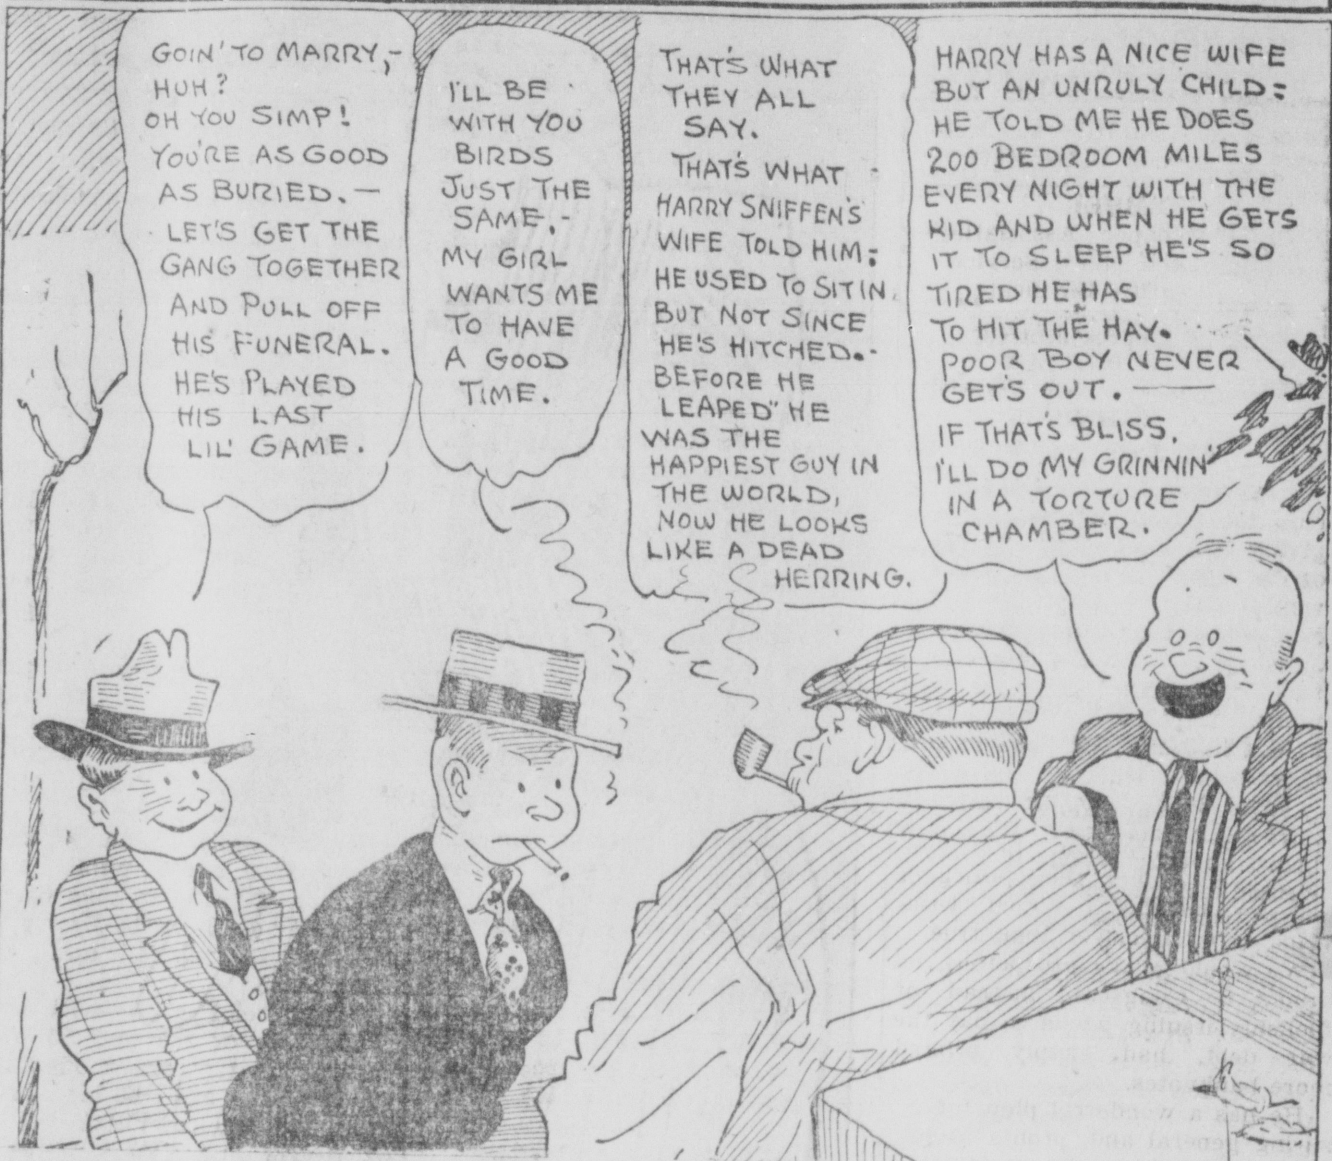

You can't beat a Typewriter for a Christmas gift. Every member of the family can appreciate it. We have them from $20 up. Paul A. Johnson Printing Service. 225-1t.

COXEY'S RECIPE

"All the prosperity of the country," says "General" Jacob S. Coxe, "is in the hands of the Big Five B's—the banker, the bondholder, the broker, the bootlegger and the burglar." Which wise-crack is more clever than true.

We would all be prosperous, he thinks, if Congress, instead of foolishly issuing bonds to pay the war debt, had simply printed more banknotes.

He has a wonderful plan for insuring general and profitable employment, which he originated back in 1894 and is now brushing up to fit the present situation. Let the government issue "legal tender money without interest," distributing it around the country to pay for new public works. He would also provide a community bank where citizens could borrow without interest, paying only one-half of 1 per cent a year for service charge.

It's fine to have the Coxes to show, by contrast, what clear economic thinking is.

The well-meaning old "General" doesn't seem to have learned anything since he was arrested for walking on the grass on the White House lawn. If printing more money were the way to prosperity, post-war Europe would have been far more prosperous than America, and Russia would have topped us all. When it finally cost about a trillion dollars for a street car ride, it dawned on European Coxes that it doesn't do for governments to make counterfeit money any more than it does for individuals.

STUNTING NOISE

Rats have never been considered especially sensitive to noise. But Dr. Laird of Colgate University had a hunch that maybe they were affected by its as human beings are. So he tried assorted noises on rats for the benefit of humans. This is a useful process, because it saves time. The experimenter can get as much result from a white rat in one year as he can from a human being in 20 or 30 years.

The scientist found that rats permitted to lead a quiet life ate 2 to 3 per cent more food than rats that were bothered by electrical disturbances made to imitate city noises. And they grew 10 per cent faster. So the rats that lived quietly grew bigger than the rats that lived in a racket.

Dr. Laird draws a parallel between these two sets of rats, artificially brought up under city conditions and country conditions, and children brought up in the city and country. The country children, he observes, grow larger than the city children. He thinks it is largely the noise that makes the difference.

ANOTHER LITTLE ANNOYANCE

"The Masked Hostess" by BLAIR STEVENSON

CHAPTER XXXI.

It was Stefano who fired the shots which Nathalie heard as she turned at the gate and headed the yellow roadster for Brookville.

From the position in which he sat facing Niccolo, it was possible for him to be aware of any person at the door or on the stairs or in the hall without relaxing his watch on Niccolo.

As Stefano understood Ferris's plan in respect to Nathalie, all Ferris wanted of her was to have her sell him The First. If she refused to sell, Ferris, beaten, could do nothing but go away. He could not understand at all why Niccolo had been placed on guard over him. He asked him finally, speaking in Italian as before:

"Niccolo," said Stefano, "observe that each of my hands is still in a pocket. Holding what you do not know. Now let us imagine that you were a candle."

The man's face became miserable.

"Signor," he implored, "I will tell you a little. The signora above must not be permitted to go from here and have negotiations with the banker Signor Pound. That is as much as has been confided to me."

Stefano made him no answer for just then the part of one eye of his which was not on Niccolo saw a feminine hand on the banister rail and he knew that Nathalie was creeping downstairs.

He knew that Niccolo would turn if he heard her—turn certainly when he heard her start the motor car outside the door; for Stefano was sure that she would try to gain it and speed away.

While she was still on the stairs he calculated the distance between him and Niccolo and considered the probable weight of the chair on which he sat.

As Nathalie ran down the last of the staircase Niccolo started and turned his head to look out in the hall. Stefano sprang from the chair he was on and threw it.

The chair hit Niccolo and he went over. Instantly Stefano was on him, stunned him with a champagne bottle, and took his pistol.

He ran outside and, when he heard another car start from the stables, waited until it was at the gate and turning the way Nathalie had gone. Then he fired two shots each at the rear tires. Both tires blew out, but the car continued on its course with its rear wheels flat.

He could see, though, as he watched it driven away, that it could never catch up with Nathalie's. Then it stopped a few hundred yards down the road and a second car came out of a grove of evergreens and the men who were in the first car all sprang out and swarmed into the second. When that car had gone Stefano ran to the car that had been abandoned and drove on flat tires to the first telephone available, where he called up Monty Delaine and then Mrs. Pemberton Swaine.

Nathalie gave her car all the gas it would take and still stay on the road when she heard the revolver shots behind her. It was a car designed for speed and she was a fine driver.

It gave her a sense of triumph that she was ahead and that the road was clear. As she knew the country well she began to plan the journey to her aunt's by roads instead of main roads when she became convinced that the motor behind her had stopped.

She slowed sufficiently to be able to glance back once, and saw that those who were in pursuit of her were leaving the car they had started in and crowding into a fresh one. Then she sent her car ahead as fast as she dared drive it. She began to be aware that the motor behind her had power be there before her—that if it was not, there was a chance that she might reach the crossing before it. If she could put the on-coming train between her and the car behind her she might hope to get out of sight of her pursuers while the train went by and so possibly shake them off.

There were no gates at the crossing for the road she was traveling was little used. She contrived to look behind her again, and saw that the pursuing car was still gaining. Looking ahead she discovered the train approaching in full view.

She made a swift calculation of its speed and her own speed, her nerves entirely steady and her too and was holding the distance between them, even if it was not gaining. And it came to her that she had no driver's license and that if she continued at her present speed along any main highway she would surely be halted or overtaken by a policeman. The road was on level straight to a main thoroughfare, so at the next turn she swerved into a second country road.

The Chair Hit Niccolo and He Went Over. Instantly Stefano Was Upon Him.

At a slight turn she looked back and saw that the car in the rear was gaining on her. Frantically she stepped on the gas—then suddenly, as the grade of her road dropped, she saw far down it the signal warning of a railroad crossing. The screeching of a train whistle reached her ears.

Her mind grasped, by the clearness of the whistle, that the train was approaching along the tracks which she was headed toward and that if it was an express it would mind clear, for she had driven high powered cars ever since she was old enough. She decided she had enough advantage to cross ahead of it and did not look at it again as she shot her car across the railroad and beat the train by fifty feet.

The engineer pulled frantically at the cord of his whistle and then at the valve of the train's brakes just as she was in the train's path. The locomotive slowed sufficiently to proceed on past the crossing too late for Nathalie in view by the time the crossing was again clear.

When the expert driver who was at the wheel of it shot forward once more he came, within a half mile, to a fork where the road divided and afforded him no guess of which way the fugitive had gone.

DR. COPELAND SAYS—REGARD TEACHING OF PREVENTIVE HYGIENE

If Practical Use Is Not Made of Facts Learned About Right Living We Might As Well Be Living in the Stone Age, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

LONG ago the Greeks brought the science and art of health building to its highest perfection. But with the evidence of civilization in the case of both Greeks and Romans, luxury and self-indulgence brought vices which caused the downfall of those nations.

It is remarkable at what high level hygiene was in those times. In Greece, prenatal care of the mother was practiced with the utmost diligence. The diet and general physical culture of girls were regulated with the view of preparing them for motherhood. Convinced of the great value of right food, fresh air and exercise, both Greeks and Romans regulated and controlled the food supplies of their nations. Their prowess at games and physical culture has never been surpassed.

We may emulate the ancient Greeks not only in beauty of form and radiant health, but in physical and mental power. Physical and mental development go hand-in-hand. The Greeks knew the value of sun and air baths, and their style of dress allowed the free circulation of air around their bodies.

We might heed the animal world in right living. When an animal is sick, it knows instinctively how to treat itself. It abstains from food, rests, takes water or sand baths, its own kind of massage, and eats healing herbs and plants. Primitive man learned much from animals in all these matters. Right food, air and sunshine mean everything in developing health, and the animals knew it before we did.

Today we have public health centers for the study and prevention of diseases. For many, many years our doctors and hospitals have concentrated on cures for disease, but in these modern days there are great movements for disease prevention and for health maintenance.

In every great city are medical schools and laboratories where important research into every known disease is going on every day. Preventive measures for the public good are being recommended constantly. In every section of the country are great hospitals and clinics where preventive health work is carried on, open to people in every walk of life. But, after all, what do all these activities amount to unless we apply what is learned? Unless practical use is made of the new knowledge we might as well be living ten centuries ago.

We should be more interested in a discovery for the prevention of some common disease than in something relating to aviation. It means much more to each one of us personally. I fear, however, that many persons are utterly unconcerned over health discoveries.

But you should see them when they are sick! They just beg for something to stop the pain. Important as all the curative things are, far more important is it to know how to escape disease. It pays to give heed to everything having to do with the prevention of sickness.

DOWNPOUR OF RAIN HALTS DECORATING

Dangerous Wire-Climbing By Men of Utilities and Telephone Companies.

The men who were precariously hanging from the wires over traffic at Court and Main-st Friday were employees of the Ohio Utilities Co., assisted by the Citizens Telephone Co.

These men are accustomed to being "up in the air" and although they really were men, they largely resembled a gang of monkeys climbing from one pole to another then out on a limb which really was a wire.

The evergreen used in decorating was obtained "down in the hills" by the Utilities and Telephone men in a truck furnished by the Circleville Lumber Co.

The work was ended Friday when a downpour of rain put a crimp in activities. The decorating work will be completed Saturday if rain does not again hinder the wire climbers.

AT COLLEGE PARTY IN COLUMBUS

Mrs. M. H. Crites of S. Court-st attended a Christmas party Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Water Jones of E. Broad-st, Columbus. The large number of guests present were members of the Monnett Club of former Ohio Wesleyan women who were residents of Monnett hall while they were in college there.

Mrs. Jones' home was a beautiful picture with its Christmas decorations. Each guest brought a gift for the poor children. Supper was served at five o'clock by the hostess.

THEATRES

Delicious humor, heart-touching pathos and nerve-trilling thrills combine to make "Oh Yeah!" Pathe's all-dialogue production which opened Friday at the Met theatre, one of the most completely satisfying screen entertainments ever presented at this popular theatre.

Bringing together on the screen for the first time Robert Armstrong and James Gleason, the team that scored such a tremendous international success, on the stage in "Is Zat So!", the picture proves a worthy successor to that great triumph. It is replete with laughs and moves along swiftly to a dramatic climax that is breathtaking.

"Oh, Yeah?" directed by Tay Garnett is the story of two railroad brakemen who have the wanderlust and work wherever there is a railroad, but not for long. They never can stay put. That is, they can't anchor until they land in Linda, a railroad camp and develop two perfectly good heart romances. The love affairs of these two hardboiled roustabouts is one series of rib tickling occurrences.

AT THE GRAND

An all-star cast led by incomparable Betty Compton and with such personages as Grant Withers, Bert Roach and John Davidson playing the leading roles, the talking picture, "The Time, The Place and the Girl at the Grand" Sunday, Monday and Tuesday is bound to be a success.

The picture has plenty of pep, youth, gaiety comedy and everything that goes to make one of Betty Compton's pictures a real success.

Vitaphone varieties and Talking News are also listed.

Should a wife keep a secret from her husband, no matter how harmless it is?

The harrassing social question is revived with fresh impetus in "The Locked Door," a stirring all-dialogue photodrama of love and mystery coming next Sunday.

Monday and Tuesday to the Cliftona theatre.

Under the direction of George Fitzmaurice, one of United Artists ace directors, the picture tells in an interesting and entertaining manner the heartaches and tragedies resulting from withholding even the most innocent item from the past.

Headed by an all-star cast composed of Rod La Rocque, Barbara Stanwyck, the sensational Broadway star of "The Noose" and "Burglar" and William Boyd, stage star of the original play, "What Price Glory," and Betty Bronson, "The Locked Door" is one of the most noteworthy screen productions presented at the Cliftona theatre in a year.

In the supporting cast are Zasu Pitts, Mack Swain, Harry Stubbs, Harry Mestayer, George Bunny, Clarence Burton and Edward Dillon.

PROGRAM FOR YULETIDE

A program for Christmas was followed Friday afternoon at the December meeting of the Missionary society of the Presbyterian church, entertained at the home of Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker on W. Union-st. Twenty-two members were present to enjoy the program and the gracious hospitality of their hostess.

Mrs. Maude Foster contributed an interesting paper "Syria, in Village and Town." An unusual Christmas story was read by Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier and Christmas songs were sung by Miss Helen Marion. Miss Edith Haswell had charge of the devotional.

The regular business session followed, during which plans were made for the sewing meeting on the second Friday. This meeting will be held in the church.

Mrs. Hunsicker served lunch to the members, delicious and suggestive of the Christmas season.

Miss Helen and Miss Eleanor Snyder will arrive home Monday from the New England Conservatory at Boston, for the Christmas vacation.

Circleville Loses Game To Marysville, 19-12

TIGERS HOLD LEAD AT HALF BUT OFFENSE FAILS IN FINAL

Marysville Given 28 Free Throws While Locals Get 11 Chances—Score 8 to 4 at Halftime In Favor of Guthrie-men But Failure To Make Easy Shots Causes Downfall—Washington C. H. Next.

Holding a lead of eight to four at half-time and outplaying their fast opponents in practically every department of the game, Circleville high school's basketball tossers lost a tough battle to Marysville Friday evening by a 19 to 12 score when their defense failed to function and their offense cracked decidedly in the second half of the tilt at Marysville.

The Tiger tossers showing their best passing attack of the season, and with big Zeke Zeimer winning the tipoff nearly every time, passed, dribbled, guarded and completely outplayed Coach King-smore's crew in the first two sessions of play. But when the teams trotted out for the second half it was a different story. With three of the men having two fouls against them starting the second half, it is possible that fear of committing the third and fourth personals was in the players' mind for Marysville chalked up nine points in the third quarter while the locals got one of Zeimer's foul tosses.

USE PIVOT PLAY
Marysville's well drilled offense with Lee McMahon, 1929-30 veteran acting as pivot man in a pretty set play, worked to perfection and the Marysville team had scored six more points to Circleville's three in the final session.

Two factors materially hurt the Red and Black chances. One was inability of the players to make a number of pot shots, which should never have been missed. At least five times one member of the squad by a beautiful cut, eluded his guard and dribbled into the net only to miss the shot when he stopped just before shooting the ball, causing it to fall back to the court. The second reason for defeat was the removal of Zeimer and Russell from the contest on personal fouls late in the third period and early in the fourth. Circleville was given 11 chances for points on free throws, while Marysville toed the charity line no less than 28 times. Out of 15 free throws in the first half only two were scored by the Marysville district champs. But in the second half seven throws were chalked up in 13 attempts.

MARYSVILLE LUCKY
It isn't very often that a high school coach will slap himself on the back and thank his lucky stars that the game is over, but that is just what Coach King-smore did.

The miles and miles of bulb fields in Holland are a rare sight in spring. But the Dutch grower is so sentimental; the bulb fields would soon disappear, an unprofitable industry. The tourist is welcome to as many flowers as he can carry away from the "refuse pile" beside every patch.

Deception on Both Sides

ASHVILLE, JACKSON GAME FEATURES COUNTY TILTS

Ashville's one point victory over the Jackson-twp basket tossers featured Friday's county high school basketball games when the Kauber-coached men chased up a 21 to 20 victory.

Ashville took an early lead and held it throughout although Jackson almost overcame them at the end.

Jackson girls were swamped by Ashville, 43 to 5. The games were played at Jackson.

Deercreek boys again showed their power when they tramped through Walnut-twp team for a 28 to 12 victory.

All the Williamsport boys played well with Anderson and Tomlinson again carrying the brunt of the attack. Williamsport girls were decisively beaten by the well coached Walnut girls by a score of 37 to 14. The games were played at Walnut.

The Scioto-twp boys showed real strength when they walloped Darby-twp by a count of 16 to 3. The game was a defensive one with Scioto holding a continuous edge. The Scioto girls edged the Darby girls by an 8 to 6 score in a game which was closely fought throughout. Darby-twp was the scene of these games.

New Holland's Fighting Dutchmen continued their winning ways by trouncing the Monroe-twp lads by a 22-12 score at Monroe-twp. Honors for both teams were divided.

The New Holland girls were defeated by the crack Monroe girls by a score of 17-16.

Perry-twp boys defeated the Muhlenberg boys 15-10 in a hotly contested overtime period.

The Perry girls won their game from Muhlenberg 26 to 18. The games were played at Muhlenberg.

LETTERS TO SANTA CLAUS FROM INTERESTED KIDDIES

Dear Santa Claus:

Please bring me for Christmas a Kiddy-car, a little red wagon, a book, a little red ball with a string on the end so that I can bounce it up and down. I also want a little pair of red and black boots with a picture of a little cat on the top.

With love,
Francis Allen,
958 Pickaway St.

Circleville, Ohio, Dec. 12, 1929.

Dear Santa Claus:
Will you please bring me some Tinker toys, a rag doll, a pair of booties and a yellow doll buggy. Although I am a little girl 14 years old, I still believe in you. My girl friend Stella DeLong, tries to tell me that there isn't such a thing as a Santa Claus, but I'm from Missouri and you will have to show me. I am a believer in you,

Marcella Allen,
958 Pickaway St.

Circleville, Ohio, Dec. 12, 1929.

Dear Santa Claus:
Please bring me a picture book, a sled, a little red wagon and a new tag for my dog, Bob, as it will soon be the first of the year and time for Daddy to buy a new tag if you don't bring me one. I remain,

Your little friend,
Jimmie Lytle,
966 S. Pickaway St.

Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am a little girl seven years old. I want you to bring me a doll baby named Tickletoes, a dresser and a sewing box, some candy, bananas and oranges.

Yours truly,
Evelyn Marie Russell,
Circleville, O., R. 5.

Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am a little girl five years old. I want a doll baby named Tickletoes, a piano, a sewing box and some candy, oranges and nuts. I will go to bed early and be a good girl.

Yours truly,
Opal Ellen Russell,
Circleville, O., R. 5.

Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am a little boy nine years old. I would like for you to bring me a bicycle, a knife, a caterpillar tractor and trailer, some candy, oranges and bananas.

Yours truly,
Donald Lloyd Russell,
Circleville, O., R. 5.

Circleville, Ohio.

Dear Santa Claus:
I am a little girl two and one-half years old. Will you please bring me a big mamma doll, a kiddy car, Felix, the cat, a new pair of shoes and fruits, nuts and candy and dear Santa I have a sister, Ellen 11 years old, will you please bring her a leather case to carry her books to school in. Christmas season is here. You are making up your Christmas budget, do not fail to include the Otterbein Home in your gifts. A special service will be held Dec. 22nd, and the gifts should be in by that time.

Truth does not need a defender, only an investigator. Attend church and you will find that there are depths that you have not reached in the realm of truth. Do not speculate alone investigate.
Our services open at 9:15 with a class for every age. We had a fine increase in attendance last Sunday and may we show a larger one this Sunday.

Morning services at 10:30. This service will be in charge of the Otterbein Guild and you will enjoy the program, which has been planned to help you and to honor God and do Him service.

C. E. Meets at 6 p. m. Mr. Harry Kraft is the president of the Christian Endeavor and each department will have a good program and you will be well paid for your coming.

Evening services at 7, subject: "The Conditions of Pardon." This is what we want and need. Come and find out what the book says about obtaining it.

The evangelistic services will begin Jan. 1st and continue for at least two weeks. Make your plans to attend each service. If you have any one who you would like to have us visit please send their names and address to pastor.

THE CHURCH INVITES YOU

KNOWING GOD
Dr. William P. Merrill says, "If you want to know God, there are two ways: private prayer and public worship. Here are two great means of finding God and of living with Him in a real fellowship; the practice of His presence; the participation in social worship."
"Use these great means. Seek and keep seeking; knock and keep knocking until you find your way into God's home and abide with Him there. Each must find his own way into that home."

The question is whether the individual wants to now God badly enough. In the great beyond, we want that He knows us so it is wise that we get better acquainted with Him here. Why not accept the invitation and COME TO CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY?

BULLETIN

December is the joyful season of The Church Year. All departments of the Church and Sabbath School are urging regular attendance and the securing of new people.

We ask of the parents to support the move by joining with a fresh interest in the work of the school.

All we have to say about that next naval conference is that we hope it won't have quite so much expert advice as usual.

Creamed Comments On S.S. Lesson

The Christian Spirit in Industry, Deuteronomy 24:14-15; Ephesians 6:5-9; I. Timothy 6:17-19 for Sunday, Dec. 15.

The Bible does not attempt to work out technical solutions to industrial problems nor to give judicial decisions on them, but it furnishes such principles and presents such right attitudes a will enable well-meaning men possessing the Christian spirit to work out their solution in mutual justice and brotherhood.

V. 14. "Thou shalt not oppress a hired servant that is poor and needy, whether he be of thy brethren or of thy sojourners that are in the land within thy gates." In our present economic order with wealth and power congested in a few hands, there is great opportunity for those in power to take advantage of those subject to them. If we would consider others our brothers, we would possess a spirit that would save us from selfishness and hardness of heart which would provide justice to all.

V. 15. "In this day thou shalt give him his hire, neither shall the sun go down upon it (for he is poor and setteth his heart upon it); lest he cry against thee unto Jehovah and it be sin unto thee." Giving the laborer his hire insures men their just share of the products of their labors; otherwise there may follow resentment and anger which may result in rebellion and a strike likely to disturb public order or explode into a social revolution. Delayed payments for public service may work cruel hardships.

V. 5. "Servants, be obedient unto them that according to the flesh are your masters, with fear and trembling, in singleness of heart, as unto Christ." The Old Testament recognized slavery as a condition to be overcome and presented the working principle of entry; the one who obeys civil law is the one who best enjoys civil liberty, the one who obeys the moral laws enjoys best moral liberties. In obeying God we become free.

V. 6. "Not in the way of eye-service as men-pleasers; but as servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart; with good will doing service, as unto the Lord and not unto men." The idea and spirit has crept into some men that the less work they do for their employers the better off they will be, as it is supposed this leaves that much more work for them to do; honesty calls for a full day's pay. The man who possesses a high type of character is questioned. There is a great financial value in the religious output of the church in character formation that ought to call forth a more liberal support of the church.

V. 9. "And ye masters, do the same things unto them, and forbear threatening; knowing that he that is both their Master and yours is in heaven, and there is no respecter of persons with him." Masters are to act in the same Christian way as they expect their servants to act; masters and servants are mutually helpful when all are subject to the will of God.

So it is that labor and capital are mutually beneficial.

Vs. 17-19. "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor have their hope set on the uncertainty of riches, but on God who giveth us richly all things to enjoy. That they do good, that they be rich in works, that they may be ready to distribute, willing to communicate, that they may lay hold on the life which is life indeed." Wealth is so much stored-up service, the very blood and bone of men minted in coin, and therefore it should not be wasted in mere luxury and pleasure but should be turned back into channels of human welfare.

The Better Way

Mr. Ford and Religion

When asked his reaction to religion, Henry Ford, in a recent interview with Cameron Wilkie of the Christian Herald, said the following:

"Religion is like electricity. I do not understand electricity, but I am deeply interested in it. I want to know all I can about it. I see its power and its results. I see it turn the wheels of industry. I know that it lights up the dark places of the earth. I know that it warms our hearts and that it makes the world better. I see and admit its effectiveness, even though I do not profess to understand it at all."

"You can take the sermon on the mount, put it down into industry anywhere, and it will work. You don't need to work up to it. You can slap it right down anywhere, today, tomorrow, in any business and it will work completely. You don't have to build up to the sermon on the mount. That sermon on the mount is action-religion put into action."

Fanaticism consists in redoubling your effort when you have forgotten your aim.
